GENERAL OFFENSIVE IS BEGUN IN DARDANELLES BY THE ALLIED FORCES

Things Appear to be Moving Little More Quickly in That Theatre.

TURKS ARE DRIVEN BACK

Varied Fortunes Met in Fighting in the East—Battles Are Desperate.

German Offensive in the West Has Failed.

London, June 5.—A dispatch from Mitylene that a combined general offensive against the Turkish positions began yesterday and Winston Spencer Churchill's statement at Dundee that the allied forces are within a few miles of victory, is taken as an indication that things are moving a little more quickly on the Gallipoli peninsula, where the Anglo-French troops are fighting for positions which will give them command of the Dardanelles.

These operations have been necessarily slow. After landing, the first allied forces had to be supplied with necessary artillery and reinforcements to enable them to attack the Turks, who occupied very strong positions and have been delivering repeated attacks on the British and French lines.

Nothing official has been received from either side for several days, but dispatches from Athens state that the Allies have repulsed all the attacks, the last of which, against the Australians and New Zealanders on Monday, resulted in very heavy Turkish losses.

A successful ending to these operations would be joyfully received here, as in addition to the heavy losses sustained by the land forces, the warships which are supporting them, are in continual danger from German submarines. This, of course, would mean an end to Turkey so far as Europe is concerned.

Turkey is reported to be near the end of her resources in the Caucasus, where the Russians are making steady progress and the Turks may have to meet an Italian landing in Asia Minor.

Heavy fighting still is in progress in Galicia, where the Austro-Germans are attempting an encircling movement against Lemberg, such as proved successful at Przemysl. In this the fortunes are fluctuating. The Austro-Germans appear to be making progress from the southwest, while their left wing is held up on the lower reaches of the San river and their extreme right in Eastern Galicia and Bukowina, is being severely hammered by the Russians.

The attempted German offensive in the West seems to have failed, as Berlin admits today the loss of the sugar refinery at Souchez, which is considered an important position, and to gain which many lives have been sacrificed. Fighting, however, is still going on between the Germans and British at Hooge, first one then the other taking the offensive.

Although Mr. Churchill, the former first lord of the admiralty, announced that the submarine menace has been fixed within certain limits, the Germans have been very successful in this warfare in the last few days, particularly against fishing craft, although such craft, under The Hague treaty, are supposed to be immune from attack. Since Wednesday the Germans have sunk five steamers, three of which were British, one Danish and one Swedish, 12 British trawlers and two sailing vessels.

The German total for the week ending Wednesday was eight British vessels out of a total of 1,300, measuring 300 tons and over, which arrived or departed from British ports.

Concerning the operations on the Italian frontier the advices are meagre, but British military experts gather from them that the Italians, without much opposition, are occupying positions which are likely to prove of the greatest importance when the big battles begin.

NAVAL BATTLE LIKELY.

Strong German Fleet Exchanges Shots With Russians in Baltic.

Petrograd, via London, June 6.—An official statement issued by the war office says:

"A strong German fleet has appeared in the middle Baltic and exchanged shots with the Russian fleet near the Gulf of Riga.

"No important change has occurred on both banks of the Niemen river or the front along the Narew river and the left bank of the Vistula.

"Our offensive on the lower San has developed successfully. On June 3 and 4, the 14th Austrian army corps, which suffered defeat on preceding days on the front of Warchol, Podvolina and Stritza, fell back on fortified positions between the rivers Lang and San on the front of the villages Stany, Jata and the stations of Lentowina and Zarzina. Fighting for possesion of this position continues. We took over 1,000 prisoners in this region on June 4.

"To help the Austrians who were hard pressed by us a strong force of German reserves concentrated on the left bank of the river Leng and delivered three furious attacks on the night of June 3-4 on the front between Krowica and Burdzi. These attacks were repulsed.

"On the right bank of the river San between the rivers Lubaczowka and Sklo, our infantry on June 4 captured several German trenches in the region of the village of Korsenica.

"The enemy succeeded on June 2 in capturing the village of Starvawa, which is situated on the left bank of

CHURCHILL TALKS OF BRITISH NAVY

Former First Lord of the Admiralty at Dundee.

WITH HIS CONSTITUENTS

Received With Much Enthusiasm—Declares He Only Cares About Waging Successful War—Ministry Expected to Act.

Dundee, Scotland, June 5.—Winston Spencer Churchill, former first lord of the admiralty, arrived today at Dundee, which he represents in the house of commons. He was received enthusiastically at a meeting of his constituents. He told them he did not come to make explanation or indulge in recriminations, for the only thing he cared about was the waging of a successful war.

"For four years I have borne heavy responsibility. When I say responsibility, I was responsible in the sense that I would have to bear the blame for everything that occurred. These years comprised the most important period of our naval history; a period of preparation for war, a period of vigilance and mobilization.

"I have done my best. The archives at the admiralty will show the part I played in all the great transactions that have taken place. To them I look for my defense.

"I look also to the general naval situation. The terrible dangers at the beginning of the war are over. The seas have been swept clear.

"The submarine menace has been fixed within certain limits. The personal ascendancy of our men and the superior quality of our ships on the high seas has been established beyond doubt or question.

"Our strength has been greatly increased from what it was at the beginning of the war, and growing every day by leaps and bounds, in all classes of vessels. By the end of the year the British navy will have received reinforcements which would be incredible if they were not actual facts.

"Everything is in perfect order, nearly everything has been foreseen. We have taken the measure of our foe and have only to go forward with confidence."

Mr. Churchill referred to operations at the Dardanelles, saying heavy losses must be expected on land and sea. The fleet employed there was composed of a surplus of warships after all other needs had been provided for, he said.

"In looking at our losses fairly and squarely, we must not forget the prize for which we are contending.

"The forces are within a few miles of a victory such as this war has not seen; a victory which, when it comes, will make amends for all."

"What does the nation expect of the new cabinet?" he asked. "I will answer that in one word—action. That is the demand; that is the need; action, not hesitation, not discussion or agitation. The duty lies upon the government to declare what should be done, to propose it to the parliament and stand or fall on the result."

Declaring that if it is not possible to win the war without taking men by compulsion he would support such a measure, Mr. Churchill said. He declared: "I do not believe it will be found necessary and I am sure it is not necessary now."

The question of service for home defense, to keep the fighting men abroad properly maintained, seemed to him to stand on a different footing.

"We are confronted with a foe who would without the slightest scruple extirpate every man, woman and child by any method open to him, with as little scruple as a gardener would have in smoking out a wasp's nest," said Mr. Churchill. "The whole nation must be organized and mobilized to secure a victory which will bring lasting peace."

DANIELS APPROVES PLANS FOR SPECIAL BOARD

To Re-organize the Naval Militia Must Stand an Examination.

Washington, June 5.—Secretary Daniels has approved the plan of a special board for the re-organization of the naval militia, under which every officer must take an examination prescribed by the Navy Department by February 17 of next year in order to retain his commission. Examination of enlisted men also is contemplated.

The plan calls for a tactical re-organization of the naval militia into brigades, battalions and divisions. The minimum strength of a division is 48 men while a battalion will consist of not less than three divisions and a brigade of at least eight divisions. The highest ranking officer in the naval militia is a commodore.

ANOTHER GERMAN SPY CAUGHT

Official Announcement Made in London —Reported to Have Confessed.

London, June 5.—Official announcement was made here this afternoon that another German spy, named Robert Rosenthal, had been arrested and had confessed.

According to official statement Rosenthal confessed he had been sent to England by German admiralty to obtain information on naval matters. He was arrested as he was leaving the country. He had been here only a short time.

INQUIRY INTO THE ROCK ISLAND ENDS

Interstate Commerce Commission Concludes Probe.

MANY WITNESSES HEARD

Voucher Found Where Money Paid Denver Post for "Advertising in Editorial and News Columns" for the Railroad.

Washington, June 5.—The Interstate Commerce Commission concluded its inquiry today into financial affairs of the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company which passed into the hands of receivers six weeks ago. Officials and stockholders of the company and others were examined as to their knowledge of recent transactions leading up to the receivership.

Nathan A. Amster, elected a director by minority stockholders, declared he was the only member of the board who seriously endeavored to raise money to meet obligations of the road falling due May 1 last.

Amster produced a statement issued by the receivers which he declared showed that there was an excess of earnings over fixed charges for the remaining eight months of the calendar year amounting to between four and five million dollars, bearing out his assertion that there was no necessity for the receivership.

President H. U. Mudge, of the company, who is one of the receivers, declared the statement was not a report of earnings, but a forecast of cash showing the money the receivers would need.

Sold His Stock.

Amster explained his sale of 1,500 shares of Rock Island four days before the receivers were appointed by saying that he has had a difference with the broker in whose hands these shares were and closed out all business with him at that time. He said he owned over 4,000 shares of the stock.

Joseph W. Folk, counsel for the commission, put an expert accountant on the stand to testify as to any "unusual" vouchers found in the Rock Island's reports. The accountant testified that he had found vouchers on which $44,000 had been paid the Denver Post for "advertisements in the editorial and news columns" during 1905-1909 and that on the vouchers for the first year were notations that there had been a refund to the Post of 25 cents per 100 on paper shipped to it from Wisconsin.

Two clerks of the First National Bank of New York testified that each had about $7,500 worth of stock of the Rock Island in January or February and that they had been told they were holding it as dummies for William H. More. Both assigned their stock in blank.

Mr. Folk presented also a partial stockholders list, which he said showed that some 20 clerks in this bank held $100,000 worth of the stock.

CHARGED WITH CONSPIRING TO CORRUPT AN ELECTION.

Forty-Two Persons at Corpus Christi, Tex., Indicted by Grand Jury.

Corpus Christi, Tex., June 5.—Forty-two persons, including United States Commissioner T. B. Southgate, officials of Nueces county and the local chief of police were indicted here today by the Federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to corrupt an election.

The grand jury has been investigating the election held here last November.

MASS MEETING HELD TO MAKE A PROTEST

Against Outside Interference in Frank Case.

Several Hundred Atlanta People Gather at Capitol Last Night in Orderly Manner and Adopt Resolution—One Address.

Atlanta, June 5.—Approximately 700 persons assembled on the state capitol grounds tonight in response to advertisements calling a meeting "for the purpose of defending and preserving the right of trial by jury." The crowd was orderly and very few police officers were present. There were calls for Solicitor Dorsey, but he did not appear.

The Rev. H. C. Hendley, who introduced himself as a Baptist minister, delivered an address shortly before 9 o'clock in which he declared the audience had assembled as law abiding citizens and not for violence. Mr. Hendley said they had met to "uphold the laws of Georgia and the decisions of its courts and to protest against outside interference." The minister protested against commutation in the Frank case. He mentioned the letter published at the prison commission hearing from Judge Roan urging clemency for Frank, an dsaid there were intimations that it might not have been authentic.

The crowd which attended the meeting had increased in numbers when the minister began his address.

Before adjournment the meeting adoped resolutions "protesting against outside interference with the courts and laws of Georgia."

Mr. Hendley was the only speaker. At the close of his address the crowd dispersed quietly.

COWBOYS INVADE MEXICO RESCUING KIDNAPED YOUTHS

Ten American Cowboys and Miners Defy Large Garrison of Mexicans

EIGHT MILES OVER LINE

Posse Cover Commanding Officer With Revolvers While Soldiers Look on

Nogales, Ariz., June 5.—A posse of ten American cowboys and miners rode eight miles across the border into Santa Cruz, Sonora, this afternoon, levelled their guns at the colonel commanding the garrison while 150 soldiers looked on, and obtained the release of two American boys kidnaped early today by three of the soldiers on the Arizona side of the border.

The colonel gave up his two 17-year-old prisoners, George Vaughn, son of a storekeeper at Duquesne, and Henry Chang, son of a Chinese-American citizen of Washington Camp, Arizona, without demur and the posse rode triumphantly back to the United States.

Santa Cruz is garrisoned by forces of Jose Maytorena, the village governor of Sonora. Washington Camp, where the Mexicans captured the boys, and Duquesne are border settlements 25 miles east of here.

What was expected to be gained by the kidnaping of the boys was not ascertained.

O. K. Franklin, a miner reported the kidnaping. He saw the three Mexican soldiers, mounted, near the border driving the boys, who were on foot, ahead of them at the point of revolvers. The boys' hands were tied.

Army officers were notified as was Sheriff W. R. McKnight, who promptly started out from here with a posse. Meantime cowboys and miners from Duquesne had taken the trail and with the announced intention, which they proceeded to carry out, of going into Sonora to rescue the boys.

War News at a Glance

Brief mention is made in the latest official statement issued by the Russian war office of the appearance of "a strong German fleet" in the Baltic Sea, which has "exchanged shots" with the Russian fleet near the Gulf of Riga.

The nature of this fleet, or where it came from, is problematical, but nearly a month ago several German warships were observed cruising in the Southern Baltic.

A further advance of the Teutonic allies toward Mosckaw with indications of a great battle near the Grodek Lakes, south of Lemberg, are contained in reports from the Galician front. The Austro-German military authorities, according to these reports, anticipate serious opposition in the Grodek Lakes region on the part of the Russians reinforced by large numbers of reserves.

With this event forecast in the southeastern war theatre, both the Russians and the Austro-Gergans continue fighting along the entire front in Galicia. Reports from Vienna declare that the Russians are in full retreat, although the Petrograd war office maintains that the advance of the enemy has been arrested ten miles east of Przemysl.

In France the Germans admit the loss to the French of the sugar refinery at Souchez but declare an attack by the enemy at Neuville has been repulsed. Along the other fronts in the West little of importance has occurred.

In the Italian war theatre the Vienna war office declares that nothing of importance has occurred, but from Chiasso, Switzerland, come reports that the invading Italians are making slow progress.

The Russian occupation of Van, Turkish Armenia, has been followed by attacks by Kurds in the districts of Bitlis, Mush and Diarbekr, according to dispatches from Tiflis, Trans-Caucasia. The report from Tiflis also states that Armenian volunteers are fighting desperately to protect the Christian population from the Kurds.

The visit of Emperor William at headquarters of Field Marshal Archduke Frederick, the Austrian commander-in-chief, to take part in the celebration of the archduke's birthday, was made the occasion of rejoicing at the fall of Przemysl. Coincident with the Emperor's visit the Exchange Telegraph Company has published in London a dispatch from Vienna saying that it is now virtually certain that a coalition government is to ofrmed in Hungary.

Submarine activity by the Germans coftinues, according to a dispatch from Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, which states three more British vessels had been sunk. They are the steam fishing vessels Evening Star and Cortes, of Aberdeen, and the Kathleen, of Peterhead. A fourth vessel, the steamer Sunnet Head, was torpedoed on Friday and the crew landed at Berwick.

WARNING'S EFFECT IS NOT YET KNOWN

Washington Ignorant as to Intentions of Mexicans

COALITION IS POSSIBLE

Some Evidence of an Effort on Part of Factions to Form Coalition Government—Carranza Would Fight It Out.

Washington, June 5.—The effect of President Wilson's warning to the factions in Mexico still is unknown to the United States government. None of the chiefs has made reply. Evidences of a desire on the part of Villa-Zapata forces to discuss terms of a reconciliation with the Carranza element, however, have not been lacking. A coalition of the elements which originally composed the successful Constitutionalist party in its campaign against General Huerta would meet with early recognition, according to the prevailing view in official quarters here.

The attitude of General Carranza has not been clearly defined but from all available information he intends to press his military campaign in an effort to dominate the situation by force.

Reports from the border that the Villa officials had sent a request to Eliseo Arrendondo, Washington representative of Carranza, to outline a basis for negotiations were declared unfounded by Mr. Arrendondo himself as well as Enrique C. Llorente, the Villa representative. The President's statement, However, has stimulated discussion among Mexicans of all factions here and the possibility of a reunion of the Villa-Zapata and Carranza factions is widely commented upon. Administration officials are hopeful for a reconciliation, but believe that until it is determined whether General Villa has won a decisive victory over General Obregon, the Carranza commander, in Central Mexico as reported, developments in the political situation are unlikely.

Transports to Vera Cruz.

The army transports Buford and Kilpatrick, at Galveston, will be sent to Vera Cruz to bring back American and other foreign refugees reaching that port from Mexico City, on trains now being arranged. Plans to send the ships were made today at the War Department.

Under British auspices efforts will be made early next week to take part of the foreigners by horseback and automobile from Mexico City to Pachuca, when there is railway communication with Vera Cruz.

The American Red Cross will dispatch a shipment of medical supplies to the American, Spanish and French hospitals in Mexico City, and send two more carloads of relief supplies to Monterey.

Consul General Shanklin now at Vera Cruz probably will take command of the American refugee situation in Mexico City and suppervise distribution of relief supplies.

In its summary today the Red Cross stated:

Red Cross Statement.

"In the last few days about 5,000 people many of whom are destitute have arrived at Laredo, Texas, from Monterey, as the result of an order published by the Governor of Monterey, General Gavilla which provided that all civilians who wished to go to the

KING CONSTANTINE HAS HAD CHANGE FOR WORSE

Greek Ruler Must Undergo Another Serious Operation

Report Reaching London From Athens Says That King Has Already Gone Under Knife and Had Part of Rib Removed.

Athens, Greece, (via London), June 5.—Announcement was made today that King Constantine has had a change for the worse, and that another operation would have to be performed. The operation will involve removal of one or more of the king's ribs.

The temperature of the patient last evening was 99.6; pulse 102 and respiration 20.

HAS UNDERGONE OPERATION

London Newspaper Learns That Part of Tenth Rib Has Been Removed.

London, June 5.—An Athens dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says Prof. Eiselberg of Vienna today performed an operation on King Constantine, removing part of the tenth rib.

The king felt some relief after the operation. The treatment is likely to cover a long time.

The operation performed on King Constantine indicates he probably is suffering from pleurisy with purulent effusion, which is known as empyma, the treatment for which consists of the removal of one or more ribs and drainage. One of the early bulletins on the king's condition, issued by the attending physicians on May 15 mentioned the presence of pus in the pleural cavity, which accounts for the occasional relapse which King Constantine has undergone. A favorable sign, however, is the comparatively low temperature and respiration noted in latest reports.

COURT OF INQUIRY TO PROBE CHARGES

Will Make Sweeping Investigation of Irregularities.

AT THE NAVAL ACADEMY

Annual Practice Cruise of Midshipmen Has Been Indefinitely Postponed to Allow Men to Testify at Hearing.

Washington, June 5.—After a conference with President Wilson today, Secretary Daniels appointed a court of inquiry to investigate specific charges that seven midshipmen at the Naval Academy had secured advance information on examinations. The court will make a sweeping inquiry, however, into reports that other midshipmen and possibly some instructors were involved in the irregularities.

No attempt was made at the Navy Department today to minimize the gravity of the situation.

Secretary Daniels authorized the statement that the court of inquiry would make a thorough investigation.

The annual practice cruise of the midshipmen, which was to have been begun next week, has been indefinitely postponed in order that students at the academy may testify before the court of inquiry, which will be convened at Annapolis next Monday.

During his conference with Secretary Daniels, President Wilson approved recommendations that three cadets at the Academy charged with irregularities in connection with recent examinations be dismissed from the service. The Secretary refused to make public the names o fthe midshipmen all of whom were lower class men. One of them was charged with having offered a bribe to a civilian employe of the Academy for advance information on an examination while it was alleged the other two broke into a professor's room to ascertain the standing they had attained in the examination.

Personnel of the Court.

The court which will investigate the situation is composed of Capt. R. L. Russell, former judge advocate general of the navy; Capt. A. T. Long, Commander L. R. DeSteiguer and Lieut. Commander W. C. Watt, who will act as judge advocate.

The seven midshipmen whose cases will furnish the basis for the investigation have already been recommended for dismissal by the Academy board, but Secretary Daniels after a personal investigation of the situation at the Academy decided that it was best to go thoroughly into all changes involving others.

One midshipman recommended for dismissal is alleged to have had advance copies of all examinations to be given in French and Spanish and it is claimed that the other six received the information with the full knowledge that it comprised the examination in question. It is further claimed that fragmentary information concerning the examinations came into the possession of many other midshipmen as "dope." After the discovery that the subject matter of the examination had leaked out new examinations were prepared and held.

The cadet who is said to have received the advance information and passed it on to others is understood to have claimed that it came to him anonymously through the mail. The investigation brought to light, however, a report that it was sent to him by an instructor and this is one of the phases of the situation arousing the greatest concern because of intimations that

AMERICAN NOTE IS READY BUT NOT YET SENT TO GERMANY

Reason for Delay in Despatch of Communication Not Given Out.

KNOWN TO BE FINISHED

Insists Upon Germany's Adherence to International Rules of Warfare.

Washington, June 5.—The note which President Wilson, with the approval of his cabinet, had prepared to be sent to Germany insisting on an adherence to the rules of international law in the conduct of maritime warfare was not cabled today. Word came from the White House in the forenoon that it has been virtually finished, but the document was not given to legal officers of the State Department today as had been expected.

The reason for the delay in the dispatch of the note was not revealed. Officials declined to say when it would be cabled or what its status was. The fact that the President had practically finished it led to the belief that Secretary Bryan would study it tonight and tomorrow and that it would be given to Counsellor Lansing and other officials of the State Department on Monday for revision of legal detail.

If the communication is not sent before Monday night it would scarcely reach Ambassador Gerard before Wednesday for presentation to the German officials.

A Reason for Delay.

In some quarters the delay was thought to be due to the desire to give Meyer Gerhard, personal envoy of Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, now en route to Berlin, an opportunity to reach Germany about the time the imperial government would be considering the American rejoinder.

Officials declined, however, to admit that this was a factor in the situation.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador, has transmitted a note from the British government solemnly assuring the United States that the Lusitania was not armed. This assurance confirms the investigation conducted by the American officials before the ship was given clearance from New York.

Affidavits claiming that Gustav Stahl saw guns mounted on the Lusitania still are under investigation by the Department of Justice and officials declared no evidence had been adduced to prove the statements made in the affidavits.

MORE VESSELS ARE SUNK

Nine More British Vessels Added to Toll of German Submarines

London, June 5.—Nine more British vessels have been sent to the bottom by German submarines, according to reports received here today. These include the steamer Sunnet Head, three fishing vessels, a sailing ship, three trawlers and a steam drifter. The crews of all of the vessels have been landed at English ports.

The Sunnet Head was sent down yesterday, after the crew had been ordered into the boats. The steam fishing vessels Kathleen of Peterhead, and Evening Star and Cortes, of Aberdeen, also were sunk yesterday. Th crews were landed at Kirkwall today.

The trawler Little Boy, of Lowestoft arrived at Norwich today with the crews of the trawlers Horace and Economy, which had been sunk in the North sea Thursday. The steam drifter Ena May, of Peterhead; the trawler Strathbran and the sailing ship George and Mary also have been sent to the bottom.

FRENCH OFFICIAL REPORT

Claims That Germans Forced Further Back in West—Desperate Fighting.

Paris, June 5.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"In the sector to the north of Arras we have realized important progress. With Neuville we are holding at present more than half the northern section and all the eastern part, that is to say, more than two-thirds of the village.

"We have likewise gained 450 metres in the northern part of the 'Labyrinth' and made slight progress in the center of that work where the struggle continues without cessation.

"On the whole of the front of that sector the artillery engagement notable at Lorette at Neuville and at the 'labyrinth' has been one of extreme violence.

"The German gun which last evening fired on Verdun was located this morning and came under our fire. We have been able to ascertain the effect of our fire, which damaged the concrete base and blew up an ammunition depot."

A SUPPLEMENTAL BRIEF

Filed by Government in the Riggs-Treasury Officials Case.

Washington, June 5.—A supplemental brief in the Riggs Bank suit against Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller Williams was filed today by Assistant Attorney General Warren, in support of the government's contention that the comptroller is empowered by law to penalize national banks for refusing to make special reports.

On that point depends the decision of the court, which is considering the bank's petition for a permanent injunction to restrain Comptroller Williams from collecting such penalties. All other relief sought by the bank already has been denied.

instructors have previously given "tips" to cadets on examinations.

The President and Secretary Daniels are understood to be exercised over the situation, because, after the cadets received the information, they kept the matter quiet. This fact is understood to have led the Secretary to doubt the claim of some of the midshipmen that they did not know the information they had received was in fact the examinations they were to take.

SENSATION AT ANNAPOLIS.

News That Annual Cruise Called Off Comes as Surprise to Officials.

Annapolis, Md., June 5.—The announcement that Secretary Daniels had appointed a court of inquiry to investigate alleged irregularities at the Naval Academy, together with the order from Washington holding up the departure of the practice squadron, caused a great sensation here.

Most of the visitors who came here for "June Week" had departed, however, leaving behind their sons and friends on the ships which were to have sailed tomorrow.

border would be furnished free transportation. This information comes in a telegram from General Evans at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

"The railroad between Neuvo Laredo, Texas, and Monterey was opened May 27, according to General Evans' dispatch and since then trains have been running very irregularly. One train took three days coming from Monterey. The order of Governor Davilla was good for five days only. The Mexican authorities turned the refugees over to the American side for care, but th eimmigration authorities had to turn back about 90 per cent. of them.

the Wyaznia. Our counter attack dislodged some of the enemy from this village, but he holds the ground in the neighboring heights.

"The enemy on the night of June 3-4 attacked our positions between the village of Krukenica and the river Strwiaz, but was repulsed with great losses. The enemy on June 3rd continued his attacks on our bridgeheads on the Dneister river between Tyamenica and Stry and the Nikolaieff railway. We repulsed, during the course of the day, four desperate assaults on our positions near Ugarbberg, we using the bayonet and Hand grenades. About noon on the following day on the whole of the above line the defeated enemy began to make a new front beyond the range of our artillery fire. Our troops taking the offensive attacked the enemy near Krynica. The fighting continues."

AIRSHIPS MAKE ATTACK.

Hostile Craft Drop Bombs on East and Southeast Coasts of England.

London, June 5.—Hostile airships dropped bombs on the East and southeast coasts of England last night. Little damage was done and the casualties apparently are few.

The bombs were thrown down at a number of different places which have not as yet been emmerated.

This information is contained in an official statement given out today.

Several residents of London today informed American Consul General Skinner they had received anonymous telephone calls last night warning them to get out of London with their families at once.

Among those thus notified was M. K. Shaler a member of the American-Belgium Relief Committee, who was told by an unknown voice over the telephone not to stir from his home during the night and for them to fill the baths in his house with water.

Official announcement was made tonight that six persons were killed in Monday's Zeppelin raid over London. An official statement Tuesday gave the number of deaths as four.

BERLIN OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Admits That French Occupy Sugar Refinery at Souches—Fighting.

Berlin, June 5.—General headquarters today gave out this statement:

"Western theatre:

"There has been further fighting for the remainder of the sugar refinery at Souches. For the time being it again is in possession of the French.

"The enemy's attacks at Neuville have been repulsed.

"The airship station at Lommartemont, near Nancy, was bombarded yesterday.

"Eastern theatre:

"In connection with the Russian attacks repulsed yesterday at Rawdjany and the Sawdyniki our troops have made further advances and have driven off their opponents who held the bridge head at Sawdyniki. They made 1,970 prisoners. Further north cavalry engagements took place yesterday in the region of Fokeljanij with good results for us.

"Southestern theatre:

"East of Jaroslau, the situation remains unchanged.

"South of Przemysl our troops under General Marwitz, together with Austro-Hungarian troops are advancing in the direction of Moaziska.

"The army under General Linsingen has driven the enemy back in the direction of Kalusz and Zurawno, on the Dniester."

FRENCH STEAMER SUNK.

Crew is Landed—Captain Tells Graphic Story of the Attack.

Paris, June 5.—A Havas dispatch from Brest says the crew of the French steamship Penfeld has arrived there, the steamer having been torpedoed by a German submarine on Thursday. Of the attack the captain says:

"When 50 miles off Oshant about noon the forward watch reported a submarine. Three other steamships were nearby, but the submarine made directly for the Penfeld which was the smallest and fired five shells, which fell astern or went overboard. We signalled three times 'we are stopping.'

"Finally the submarine ceased firing and allowed the crew time to take to the boats. These were some distance from the Penfeld when the torpedo was fired which sank the steamer in three minutes."

VIENNA WAR STATEMENT

Declares Russians Unable to Resist Advance of Austro-Germans.

Vienna, (via London), June 5.—The following statement was given out today at the war office:

"Russian war theatre:

"East of Przemysl near Medkya the Russians have been unable to resist a further advance of the Teutonic allies toward Mosziska. In the district of the lower San the enemy's attacks were repulsed. From the west Austro-German troops approached the district near Kalusz and Zurawna.

"On the Pruth fighting is proceeding. The enemy obstinately attacked here at several points but was driven back to the river.

Chicago, June 5.—Ty Cobb is the only "four hundred hitter" left in the three big leagues, according to averages prepared here today which include batters who have taken part in ten or more games up to last Thursday. The percentage of the Detroit star fell away during the week from .427 to .403, but he ran his stolen base total up to 25 and his runs scored to 47 in 45 games, leading all rivals. Following Cobb in the batting averages are: Daly, Chicago, .364; Thompson, Philadelphia, .357; Fournier, Chicago, .355; Jackson, Cleveland, .354.

Fred Luderus, of Philadelphia, continues in front among the National League batsmen with .308. Then come Clarke, Cincinnati, .382; Good, Chicago, .364. Saier leads in stolen bases with 12, in runs scored, 32 and in total bases with 93.

Again Manager Lee Magee, of Brooklyn, leads the Federal League batters and Benny Kauff, one of his privates, is second. Magee's average is .380 and Kauff's .369. Campbell, Newark, is third with 367.

VETERAN GOLFER TRAVIS WINS CHAMPIONSHIP TITLE AGAIN

Rye, N. Y., June 5.—For the fourth time in his long golfing career, Walter G. Travis, the Garden City veteran, won the championship title on the Metropolitan Golf Association links today. In the 36-hole match, which decided this year's honor, Travis defeated John G. Anderson, a Boston man, who recently made his residence in New York, by two up, after playing twice over the full course and holing out a 30-foot putt on the home green for a three. It was a brilliant finish to a well contested match, the first half of which found the men on even terms.

Both played rather ragged golf during the morning round. In the second round, however, they showed marked improvement and, while Anderson had a bit of hard luck at times, he played a wonderful up-hill game on the homeward journey, after he had been three down at the tenth green.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR HAS SPENT $30,000 A YEAR.

For the Three Short Years of His Life. More Than His Allowance.

New York, June 5.—John Jacob Astor, now in his third year, the posthumous child of Colonel John Jacob Astor, who perished on the Titanic, has been living at the rate of approximately $30,000 a year, according to the accounting filed with the surrogate today by his mother, Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, who is his guardian.

The court allowed Mrs. Astor $60,000 for the child's maintenance for three years, or $20,000 a year. On the accounting filed today Mrs. Astor asserts she has spent $23,639 of her own money in addition for his maintenance. Chief items in the accounting are one-third of the taxes of the Astor Fifth avenue home (the taxes being approximately $30,000 a year) $8,000 for professional services of physicians, lawyers and others, and $5,000 for clothing, supplies and toys.

Mrs. Astor asserts that she is informed that the income on the trust fund left by Colonel Astor for the child is approximately $140,000 and upon this assumption contends that it was Colonel Astor's wish that he be amply provided for.

34 SENTENCED TO THE FEDERAL PENITENTIARY

By Judge Connor During Two Weeks Term in Raleigh.

Saleeby Case Results in Mistrial—Firemen's Relief Checks Mailed—Charters Issued—Gift to Veterans.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 5.—During the two weeks' term of Federal Court that closed here this afternoon there were 34 of the defendants convicted who were given sentences to the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta. This is more than twice as many penitentiary sentences as were ever imposed during any previous term of this court. Nearly all of them are blockaders and most of the terms are for one year and a day.

Furthermore, 16 of the penitentiary sentences were for defendants convicted for offenses—nearly all blockaders—in Wake county and sent up by United States Commissioner John Nichols, in spite of being the oldest commissioner in the service, being 86 years old. Another notable thing about his record at this term of the court is that of all the cases that went up to the Federal court from him only one failed of conviction in jury trial, and this case failed through impeachment of the prosecuting witnesses.

Judge Connor ordered today a mistrial in the case against the Syrians named Saleeby—five of them—who were on trial charged with using the mails to defraud. The jury was unable to agree. The charge was that they ordered fruits and candy kitchen supplies fraudulently, operating at various times from Tarboro, Greenville, Farmville and other points in this State, and from Jacksonville, Fla., and elsewhere. The defense was by J. R. Gaskill, of Tarboro, and former Governor W. W. Kitchin.

Postmaster Gatling, of the Raleigh postoffice, has been notified that his salary gets a raise from $3,400 to $3,500 beginning July 1. This is on account of increase in the receipts of the office the past year.

Checks for Firemen's Relief.

Commissioner of Insurance James R. Young today mailed to the treasurer of 70 North Carolina towns checks for the Firemen's Relief Fund to which each is entitled under the State statute, each representing one-half of one per cent on the fire insurance policies in force in the respective towns receiving such funds. This is to be used through a local commission for the benefit of injured and needy firemen under conditions prescribed by the statute. The fund disbursed aggregates $9,690.97. The largest amount goes to Charlotte, the check to Charlotte being for $967. The next highest amount is to Wilmington, $942.77, and the next to Winston-Salem, $911.40. Some others especially notable are Asheville $738; Durham $612; Greensboro $358; Elizabeth City $209; Kinston $155; Henderson $151; Goldsboro $255.

New Corporations Chartered.

The following new corporations were chartered today:

The Lakewood Park Co., Charlotte, capital $50,000 authorized and $2,500 subscribed by the Southern Public Utilities Co.; J. R. Cherry, Z. V. Taylor and E. C. Marshall for the maintenance of an amusement park.

The Carolina Coast Lumber Co., of Newbern, capital $10,000 authorized and $1,000 subscribed by Clyde Eby, C. F. Fisher and others.

The Reliance Insurance Co., Maxton, capital $25,000 authorized and $2,550 subscribed by J. W. Carter, J. G. McCormick and others for general insurance business.

The Patterson Manufacturing Co., of China Grove, files an amendment to its charter reducing the capital to $105,000. This is through the sale of the branch mill of the company at Kannapolis, which represented $245,000 of the capital stock. J. W. Cannon is the president of the corporation.

Gift to Old Soldiers.

There was a big gathering of Daughters of the Confederacy, Confederate Veterans, Sons of Confederate Veterans and others at the North Carolina Soldiers' Home this afternoon for the ceremony of presenting to the old soldiers at the Home a splendid $150 Victrola and a big collection of especially selected records, by Manly's Battery Division, Children of the Confederacy. The presentation speech was made by Hon. J. Bryan Grimes, Secretary of State. There was a Victrola concert that followed, much to the delight of the veterans.

Philadelphia, June 5.—Mrs. Marshall McLean, of Morristown, N. J., won the woman's singles tennis championship of Pennsylvania and Eastern States at the Merion Cricket Club today by defeating Mrs. C. N. Beard of the Cynwyd, Pa., club. The score was 6-0, 6-2.

MOSTLY CONTEMPLATIVE

By T. W. CHAMBLISS.

God is a force to be reckoned with in life and the side He is on is always the winning side. Once upon a time Ben-hadad was King of Syria and there came a day when he with his army was at war with Israel. Ben-hadad had a superior force and in addition he was a great strategist, but he failed. The failure of the Syrian monarch was due to the fact that God was not on his side. God was with Israel. Ben-hadad was anxious to know the cause of his defeat. He suspected treason, but after consulting with some of his cabinet he learned that the trouble was to be found elsewhere. The prophet of God was chief adviser to the King of Israel.

Carlyle said that the prophets of God should not be merely preachers of righteousness, but a political force whom the cause of evil should have reason to fear. When Ben-hadad came to an understanding of the conditions, he changed his plan and the whole purpose seems to have been to capture Elisha, the prophet. Accompanying Elisha, as a servant, was one of the students from the School of the Prophets. One morning, in serving his master, this young student discovered that the Syrian army was encamped about them and that they were practically captured. The young man thought of escape and realized its impossibility; Then he appealed to Elisha, and was laughed at for his fears. Elisha had a vision that the younger man did not possess.

The young man saw only the forces of oppression. The old man had caught sight of the resources of God. The young man was afraid. The old man was smilingly confident. The young man is beginning to surrender. The old man would have him have the same cheering vision. The prophet prays: "Lord, open his eyes, that he may see!" When it is seemingly defeat—when the contest appears unequal—then it is that man needs to have opened eyes and be able to realize the resources of God—resources ready to be applied to man's need in the hour of man's extremity.

One may look and still not see. One may see some things and yet not see everything. One may see the adverse and disappointing things of life—the result is pessimism. The eye of the pessimist never discovers the gleams of hope or the powers that make for righteous success. That man sees the shadows but does not stop to think that the deeper the shadow the stronger the sunlight must be. How few people understand the divine lesson in nature and how few catch all the beauty that is displayed. Bayard Taylor has told us that in looking over the Mere de Glace one day, he stood beside an Englishman, who remarked: "All that ice would bring a lot of money in Calcutta, in the hot season, don't you know." There comes to the mind the immortal lines of the "Hymn at Sunrise, in the Vale of Chamounix"—one looked and saw, the other looked and saw nothing. 'Tis so often true—man sees but sees so little and misses so much.

In our estimate of humanity, how few get the vision of the higher things. In our estimate of man, his wealth or his social position greatly influences one's appreciation of him, and too often there is no search for those virtues that reveal the better quality of life. For instance, there stands before the world today The Christ. That great form which dominates the ages and yet there are many who, seeing Him, only see a man like, somewhat like, other men, and nothing more. Others will look upon the same form and discern the very God manifest in the flesh, and recognize Him as the Saviour of the world.

It is often said that it makes no difference what a man's creed is, so he is good. It makes much difference what we believe, and man's creed is merely an expression of the man's belief. It makes an infinite difference as to one's belief. It makes a vast difference what our conception of life is, for even unconsciously our conduct is conformed to our creed, our belief. If the difficulties seem to be greater than we can overcome and the forces in opposition stronger than we are able to meet, our course of conduct will be entirely different from that which we would pursue if we felt that we would be victorious. It is highly important, therefore, that our eyes should be open to all the forces that are in alignment with our cause; that we should know all the powers that we may command; that our eyes should be opened to all the resources of God and to His own great power, available to our necessity. It was to this end, therefore, that the prophet prayed for the opening of the eyes of the timid and fearful student-servant.

It is reported that New York is full of women spies. However, we fear most of them are spies for Cupid.

Lots of men would think better of the war if they only had a job that would enable them to be neutral.

A great many people don't even know that huckleberry shortcake and cream fully makes up for the one-quart law.

Everything depends on the length of time the Mexicans will be given to get together. Many mananas would suit them.

Keep your eye on Colonel Bryan. Whenever he begins to regard his peace treaties as mere scraps of paper you'd better get your gun.

Those with sordid ideas think more of the profit this country is making out of the war than they do about this country's getting into the war.

A pretty American girl who went to Europe to nurse soldiers says that being a nurse is not so bad but having to scrub filthy floors, else live in dirt, is not what she thought she had to do.

Come to think of it, Americans must have taxed the patience of the world when they fought eight years in order to win their liberty and restore peace to the country during the revolutionary struggle.

A man who is always fancying things says: "Suppose a new continent should rise up out of the Atlantic where tradition says the continent of Atlantis once existed!" Just suppose it would! There would be some more cause for war among nations that insist upon having a zone of influence wherever they can take it.

The municipal authorities of Shelby announce that it is necessary to raise more revenue, as expenses have been exceeding the town's income. More revenue can be secured by increasing the property assessment and maintaining the tax rate at what it is. Nevertheless, that means more taxes to be paid. It would be a novel idea if town and city authorities would conclude that instead of increasing the tax rate or property assessment, it it would be better, owing to hard times, to reduce expenses.

Education quickens the wits of people. Religion sobers the thoughts of people. Enlightenment enables us to see our opportunities. While the Europeans are busy destroying one another, the Japanese saw that it gave them the opportunity to take charge of the "open door" in China. The Japanese show every sign of having enough education to enable their country to see her opportunity in China and to know when it was a good time to seize it. We put out a few feelers to find out what Japan was up to in China, but she has made it perfectly satisfactory. We seem to have concluded that Japan has gone into China for her health—that is, Japan's health.

Once upon a time two knights engaged in mortal combat on account of a dispute of wonderful magnitude. One contended that a shield upon which they were looking from opposite sides was made of iron. The other contended that it was brass. Each took the other for a fool and a liar. They fought and bled, but when it was too late, it was discovered that one side of the shield was iron and the other side brass. Each had failed to look at both sides of the shield. The two knights were really two mutts, but they are not the only mutts who never take the trouble to look on both sides of a question. Anyhow, the cause of contention should be worth at least 20 cents to each before it is worth while to wrangle about it.

NEW RAILROAD RUMOR.

There is good news in the report published by the Rutherfordton Sun that the Seaboard Air Line officials are figuring on extending the old Carolina Central road from Rutherfordton to Asheville. We hope it is true, and certainly it is one of the most likely railroad propositions or possibilities in this South Atlantic territory.

Extension of the Seaboard to Asheville would give the system a direct line from deep water at Wilmington, through practically the whole length of the State. From Rutherfordton to Asheville the road would have to be built through mountains, but it would pass through one of the most romantic and beautiful sections of America, giving the Seaboard Air Line a mountain resort asset that would largely offset the extra heavy expense of building such a line. It was the intention of the original builders of the line from Wilmington to carry it through the mountains to a western connection. The line was first known as the Wilmington, Charlotte & Rutherfordton Railroad, and it was largely built by State and county aid, just prior to and soon after the Civil War. In noting the rumor, the Charlotte Observer takes this knowing view of it:

"If the Seaboard is minded to undertake this work in the near future, it would be a mighty interesting piece of news, and would indicate that at this time things are going on under the surface in North Carolina railroad circles that had not been thought probable. It is a fact, however, that in the extension of the Seaboard westward has lain dormant all these years one of the finest railroad possibilities in the South."

The Observer said something then. The best possible connections Southern railroads can make now are with the western lines. It would give our South Atlantic ports a western outlet and give all the Middle West States connection with the ports nearest the Panama Canal. It would be great for the West as well as for the port of Wilmington, for the Seaboard to connect with the great Western trunk lines by simply extending the Carolina Central on to Asheville or Knoxville.

It is not very far across the mountains from Rutherfordton to the Hill lines to the West, and it strikes us that no Southern railroad project would so appeal to capital as this proposed extension of the Seaboard westward. We would not be surprised to hear that there is truth in the rumor, and certainly it is a project that the port interests of Wilmington should agitate all the time.

THE SINEWS OF WAR.

The war in Europe is costing a vast sum of money for all the nations and, to a great extent, the length of the war depends upon how soon the world's money may become exhausted by the titanic struggle. It seems that Great Britain is carrying the financial load for all her allies and when another one enters it is up to John Bull to see that it gets financial aid.

A London dispatch says that Great Britain has to do the financing for Italy, and that Chancellor McKenna has gone to Italy to meet the Italian minister of finance at Nice. It is said this indicates an international financial arrangement with the Italian government similar to that already made and in practice with Russia, France, Belgium and minor allies.

It sems impossible for one rich country like Great Britain to even temporarily bear the financial brunt, but England not only feels the necessity of it but will go the last pound she can raise to carry on the war to a successful conclusion, if men and money can do it.

She certainly is doing more than her share so far as pouring cash into the fight is concerned. In that connection, she is the strongest unit of the allied belligerents and but for her the war would end much sooner than is the prospect up to now.

It is stated that England's next war loan will be offered in New York at an early date.

SUCCESSFUL TENANTS

In North Carolina a man does not have to own land in order to make money and be prosperous. He can be a tenant on the lands of others and be satisfied with the result of his industry. When the land owner can furnish the farm and the tenant can furnish the industry, there are results that are mutually satisfactory. Witness, therefore, from the Raleigh Times the following:

"Over in Wilson county, in Stantonsburg township, there is a remarkable community. In the center is a really attractive church building, modern in appearance and freshly painted. Close to the church is the school house, two rooms and two teachers, and the determination is to replace the school house with a new building. The land all about the school and church is owned by a few men. Heavy land-owners all of them. None of the farmers for several miles around and landowners—all are tenants. They are white people, nearly all of them. A few years ago the negroes were largely in majority in that township, but now the white voters number three to one. Those tenants are well to do, and they prefer to remain tenants. One of them has money in bank sufficient to buy a farm, but he says he will continue to work for a land-owner and loan his money. Others are independent, buying their own supplies, but still tenants. All of them have made what they have right on that land and have done it as tenant farmers. Not so bad to be a tenant after all. It all depends on the man."

What The Times says in the foregoing is significant. It shows that people with muscle, energy and industriousness can come to North Carolina and capitalize them on a farm that they can rent or work on shares, with a good landlord to stand at their backs. They can come as tenants and make money and continue to be tenants or make enough to buy a farm of their own in time. It has been done. If that is not an inducement for industrious people to come to North Carolina, we would like to know the reason why.

By the way, take note of the fine community advantages which those tenants at Stantonburg have while they are gaining something by their thrift.

TO USE PANAMA ROUTE

The New York Journal of Commerce announces that the week's feature of the local war risk insurance market on shipments in British bottoms, is the fact that the underwriters are now making rates to the Far East favoring the Panama Canal route instead of the Suez Canal. On Friday the rate quoted was one-quarter of one per cent. via Panama, while the Suez Canal rate is placed at one-half of one per cent. or twice as high.

The recent declaration of Germany, Austria and Turkey extending the submarine zone to the Suez Canal has been a partial cause of this change, the announcement says. Heretofore both rates have been quoted on a basis of three-eighths of one per cent. for British ships. It is said in New York underwriting circles that if the Turks can make the Suez Canal route dangerous, all steamers destined for the Far East may be completely diverted to the Panama route. Already a number of orders have been received in New York to change the course of several ships to the Panama route.

A few days ago a large Japanese ship came through the Panama Canal and will carry the first cargo direct from the Eastern Atlantic side to Japan. Probably by next fall Japan will be sending steamers to Wilmington and other South Atlantic ports by the Panama route.

THE DUPLIN RECORD.

The Star welcomes to its exchange list the Duplin Record, a new eight-page weekly which began publication at Warsaw last Thursday. Mr. John J. Moore is editor and the paper is launched by the Warsaw Publishing Company. The paper is Democratic, and the first number starts out in a vigorous way, making it worthy of support by the people of the section it will serve. A live local paper is a good asset for a town, hence Warsaw is to be congratulated upon having a paper that will exploit her interests.

A fellow who reads the war bulletins says he can't imagine what the war news will be next week, but he is satisfied that about all of it will be a dad-blamed lie.

THE LIGHTING PROPOSITION.

To the Editor of The Star:

About the petition, signed by three hundred, to increase the lights of Market, Princess and Front streets:

Someone said the Tidewater Power Company wanted a ten years' lighting contract and, if they got that, they would put in this increase in lights for nothing; or, that is the way I understood the party who brought the petition to me.

First. I do not think we need more lights in that locality.

Second. I am opposed to long contracts.

What we want to do is guard against all needless expenses in our government, but while doing that try to do all we can to give the people good government. I yet think we should have a tax-payers' league and that league should meet once a week and discuss our government. Our tax-payers should take more interest in government than we do, and I think our officials would be glad to be consulted about ways and means and better methods on how government should be conducted and if they do not want this advice or help, then I think the tax-payer needs to look more closely after them, for the men who furnish the money to run a concern should at least know how the work is being done.

These are thoughts thrown out by the way. Respectfully submitted,

D. L. GORE.

CANAL PROJECT DESCRIBED

Interesting Article in Manufacturers' Record by Secretary of Fayetteville Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Thomas H. Sutton, secretary of the Fayetteville Chamber of Commerce, has an interesting article in the current issue of the Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, descriptive of the canalization project on the Cape Fear between Wilmington and Fayetteville. The article is illustrated with several excellent photograpns of Lock No. 1, at Kings Bluff. The article, which will be of interest here as well as throughout the upper Cape Fear section, is as follows:

"Probably all the citizens of Fayetteville are aware that the United States government is doing some sort of canalization work on the Upper Cape Fear river. Much has been said about it by the papers in the past, and occasional reference is made to it now. Without doubt a large proportion of our citizens are ignorant as to just what is being done, the magnitude of the work and its great and far-reaching benefits to our city. Certainly the writer had a very vague idea of the work, and a visit to the first lock and dam at King's Bluff soon convinced him that his idea was not only very small, but also very incorrect. The following notes are a layman's impressions of a gigantic engineering feat, and are not intended to thoroughly familiarize one with what has been done, and how.

"To get an idea of the size of this work it must be remembered that King's Bluff is just about at the head of tidewater in the river; that the river at that point is 320 feet wide. On the eastern bank of the river is an enormous abutment. This is of solid concrete, is about 60x70 feet on top and about 30 feet high above the water. It extends back into the bank and is anchored to the bank by means of steel cables attached to steel piles driven far back on the side of the river hill. This abutment extends out into the water about 15 feet. It is designed to protect the dam from being injured during high water.

The dam, which extends from this abutment on the eastern bank to the lock on the western side, is built in three sections of about 93 feet each. These sections are constructed of heart pine lumber and are in the shape of cribs. Each crib is completed and placed in its proper position. It is then filled with thousands of tons of granite, which cause it to sink down from water seeping through, a fence of solid tongued and grooved piling is driven just upstream about three feet in front of the dam. This piling is driven 15 feet below the bed of the river, and comes up to the surface of the river at low water. Just 15 feet downstream from the dam a similar fence of piling is driven to protect the dam from water which may come through under the dam at any place which may not be perfectly sealed.

"The lock, which is on the western side of the river, is of reinforced concrete construction. The inside measurements are 40 feet wide by 200 feet. The foundations of the lock walls are 15 feet below the bed of the river, and each wall is 25 feet wide at the river's bed. The walls are graduated to the top, where the width of the inside wall is seven feet and the outside six feet. The wall stands 30 high above low water. To get the foundations for the lock it was necessary to surround the entire location with a water-tight cofferdam. This was a difficult undertaking, owing to the presence of quicksand. Interlocking steel piling was used for this cofferdam. It is the principle of this piling that when the pressure is decreased within, and consequently increased without, the piles lock with each other and form a water-tight dam. When the water was pumped out of the area for the lock it was then possible to lay the foundations by sealing up the quicksand beds with concrete. Before the concrete foundations of the lock were laid hundreds of 15-inch pilings were driven to a depth of 35 feet. These pilings were cut off even with the bed of the river. Then the concrete foundations were laid on top of the pilings. This gives a basis which is absolutely permanent.

"The appearance of the lock is that of a great rectangular box. At each end are the lock gates, each gate being 20 feet wide and weighing several tons. They are made of steel. The gates work and fit into each other very much the same as the double doors on a large bank safe. These gates can only be operated on slack water. An illustration will make that clearer. When a vessel is going upstream it enters the lock with the upper gates closed. The water is then at the same stage in the lock as it is below the lock. When the vessel is in the lower gates are closed. Then valves are opened in the upper gates, which raises the water in the lock to the level of the water above the dam. Then the upper gate is opened and the vessel moves out in perfectly still water. If a vessel is going downstream it enters the lock with the lower gate closed. The water is then at the level of the dam. The upper gate is closed and valves are opened in the lower gate, which lowers the water in the lock to the level of the water below the dam. Then the lower gates are opened and the vessel proceeds downstream in perfectly still water. Major Stickle, the engineer in charge, told us that it would take about 20 minutes for a vessel to pass through the lock.

"Any account of our trip up to the lock and dam at King's Bluff would be incomplete without some mention of the beauty of the trip up the river. The trip was made on the government yacht, the same having formerly belonged to the late H. M. Flagler, the railroad magnate of Florida. Upon this splendid boat, and with weather conditions ideal, the trip was one of beauty and pleasure. However, the trip was not arranged as a pleasure trip, but that Fayetteville might show to outside capital the great advantages which she will have for the distribution of merchandise when this canalization project is complete; to show what a great and fertile country will be opened to the channels of trade by this river; in fact, to prove that Fayetteville, an inland city, as a distributing point and as a manufacturing center has advantages that no other city in the State has or can have.

INTERESTING RESUME OF TRUCK MOVEMENT

Volume of Produce Moving Makes Good Showing

Farmers of Wilmington Section Will Secure Several Hundred Thousand Dollars This Season—Income Below Normal.

The last issue of the Carolina Fruit and Truckers' Journal of this city carried an interesting review of the lettuce and strawberry shipments out of this territory this season, with an approximate idea of the money value of these crops to Wilmington and Eastern North Carolina points. Although the shortest strawberry season on record, 1,189 cars moved out of this territory under refrigeration and by the Southern Express, with about 180 carloads of lettuce.

Snap beans, and Irish optatoes, the Journal goes on to show, will constitute the next heaviest movement of the trucking crops out of this section, the former going forward at a lively rate during the past week, while the latter will start rolling heavily this week. More than 100 carloads of beans, peas, etc., went out of this territory the past week and fully one hundred carloads of potatoes are slated to go forward the coming week. While the prices for beans have dropped to the point where a profit is hard to find, potatoes are still selling at good prices.

South Carolina, according to The Journal, has shipped the greater portion of her potato crop, while North Carolina will hold the boards, with Norfolk a close second this week and during the weeks to follow. The Journal is advised that the bean movement from Goldsboro this season will be in the neighborhood of 60,000 baskets with 32,000 from Mount Olive, 20,000 from Faison and 35,000 from points between Faison and Wilmington. According to The Journal's advices and reports from different parts of the State the Irish potato outlook this season is the best North Carolina has ever known.

From Laurinburg, Maxon, Lumberton, Laurel Hill, Old Hundred, Johns Station and Wagram The Journal prints reports showing the canteloupe and watermelon outlook in that territory to be a most flattering one and approximately 25 per cent. greater than last year. From Mount Olive and other points on the W. & W. R. R. reports are printed showing that something like 130 cars of cantaloupes and watermelons will move from that section, while something like 200 carloads of dewberries will move out from the Southern Pines, Sanford, Jonesboro and Carthage district.

Clinton in Sampson county is slated to ship 35,000 crates of sweet corn and 10,000 crates of huckleberries, while Mount Olive will likewise ship several thousand crates of both products. Other points like Faison, Calypso, Warsaw, Rose Hill, Wallace and other point will ship large quantities of huckleberries and green corn to Northern markets. Turkey in Sampson county will ship 10,000 crates of huckleberries, 10 carloads of cantaloupes, and 2,000 crates of green corn.

All in all, The Journal makes a good showing for the volume of stuff moving and while the prices are far from satisfactory in many respects the volume is sufficiently large to distribute several hundred thousand dollars in ready cash among the farmers throughout this territory during the months of May, June and July. While this sum is far below what reasonable expectations had counted on, it is nevertheless sufficiently large to justify the assumption that the circulation of this much ready cash will loosen up and stimulate business along many lines.

FIRST WEEK OF CONTEST AROUSES MUCH INTEREST

First Six Days, Closing Yesterday, Very Satisfactory.

The first week of the Bijou's California-Canadian Popularity Contest closed yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock, and from indications, the affair will be a grand success. Ten girls are right in the thick of the fight, and it is indicated that the final result will be hotly contested by several of the contestants who are already entered.

For the coming week, the Bijou announces that it will give a prize of $5 in gold to the contestant turning in the biggest week's work, for the week beginning tomorrow. This will give any one of the contestants who is in the rear an opportunity to put in a good week's work, win the extra prize money, and put themselves in the foreranks of the procession in the contest for that great eight thousand mile trip, which starts August 3.

RECEIVES IRON CROSS

Likes Richmond's Lights.

Councilman W. J. Bradshaw, of the department of streets and wharves, who attended the Confederate reunion in Richmond the past week, is much pleased with the lighting system of the Virginia city. Mr. Bradshaw is interested in securing a more modern lighting system for the business section of Wilmington, and he may advocate a somewhat similar system to Richmond's if the terms can be arranged. The Rotary Club's petitions for a more modern lighting system are to be considered at the meeting next Wednesday.

BOARD FILLS NEW POSITIONS

Food Inspector and Public Nurse Added to Health Department Staff —Permits Granted.

The Board of Health, in special session yesterday afternoon, elected a food inspector and a public nurse to fill the two new positions created in the expansion of the health service planned for the new fiscal year, and also passed upon nearly 100 applications for permits to conduct food shops, meat markets, restaurants, etc. Mr. H. R. Aiken, city editor of The Morning Star, was elected food inspector and Miss Christie MacRae Pinner was elected public nurse.

The position of food inspector pays $1,000 a year, and that of public nurse $720 a year. The amount to be paid the food inspector is the same as was formerly paid to the sanitary engineer in health service, which position has been abolished. Under the new efficiency system worked out for the health department, the two new positions, constituting an important extension of the health work, are provided for at an increase in this year's budget of only $70 over last year's.

Permits, some of them conditional on improvement, were granted to 92 restaurants, markets, confectionery stands, hotels, bakeries, food shops, etc., and there are a number of other applications yet to be passed upon. It is necessary to have the permit from the Board of Health before the city will issue license to conduct the business. The following are those granted permits yesterday.

CHARLOTTE GETS NEXT ENDEAVOR CONVENTION

Geo. L. Mitchell, of Wilmington, Re-Elected President

All Officers Continued With Exception of Two Vice Presidents—Enthusiastic Meeting—St. Andrew's Awarded Two Banners.

Charlotte was selected last night as the place for the next convention of the North Carolina Christian Endeavor Union and all of the old officers were re-elected with the exception of two vice presidents, Mr. H. G. Braxton, of Kinston, and Mr. C. E. Newman, of Raleigh, being elected to these positions. Kinston and Rocky Mount extended invitations, but the urgent request of the Greatef Charlotte Club, as expressed in a telegram yesterday, carried the day for the Queen City.

The announcement of the nominating committee that Mr. Geo. L. Mitchell, the young and energetic president for the last year, had again been selected as head of the organization, was greeted with a tremendous outburst of applause.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian church societies get two of the three banners awarded to the local unions showing the best percentage, while the contest for the third resulted in a tie between the society at Kenansville and Ashboro Street Friends' church in Greensboro, and it was decided to allow each society to keep the banner for six months. The contest for these banners is always keen and there was no feature of last night's session in which greater interest was shown.

Two Inspiring Addresses.

The selection of the next meeting place, the election of officers and the awarding of the banners followed two inspiring and instructive addresses, one by Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, this city, who spoke on "The Christian Endeavor Type," and the other by Rev. Dr. J. M. Wells, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, this city, who led a general conference on "Advance Steps in Christian Endeavor." The service was opened with devotional exercises by Rev. Andrew J. Howell, of this city. Following the regular business session Mr. G. A. P. Bowman, of Wilmington, gave an instructive stereopticon lecture on "Christian Endeavor Efficiency."

The officers for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Geo. L. Mitchell, Wilmington; vice president and district superintendent, Rev. J. D. Andrew, Newton; vice president and district superintendent, E. P. Barker, Greensboro; vice president, district superintendent and superintendent of prison work, C. E. Newman, Raleigh; vice president and district superintendent, Rev. William Hooper Adams, Charlotte; vice president and district superintendent, H. G. Braxton, Kinston; vice president and district superintendent, Rev. P. L. Clark, Burgaw; secretary, Miss Isabel McDougall, Wilmington; treasurer, Newton Fisher, Wilmington; extension secretary, J. P. Russell, Lumberton; press superintendent, Miss Florence E. Ledbetter, Greensboro; missionary superintendent, Rev. J. C. Leonard, Lexington; junior and intermediate superintendent, Mrs. Lewis McFarland, High Point; superintendent of floating work, Thos. C. Findlay, Wilmington.

Sessions Today.

The convention will close tonight with addresses at the First Presbyterian church, where the convention has been in session, by Dr. W. A. Harper, president of Elon College, who will speak on "Conserving Christian Energy," and Rev. J. C. Leonard, of Lexington, who will discuss "The Great Commission from the Standpoint of Christian Endeavor."

This morning at 9:45 o'clock there will be a Floating Endeavor prayer meeting aboard the coast guard cutter Seminole. Rev. E. J. Harold, of Greensboro, will make a short address. Mrs. Longfellow will sing a solo and the Acme Quartette will also sing. All are invited to this service.

A number of the visiting ministers and laymen will speak or preach in the local churches this morning at 11 o'clock. President Harper will speak at Dock Street Christian church; Rev. J. C. Leonard will preach at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church; Rev. E. J. Harold will preach at the First Baptist church, and Capt. J. P. Russell will make an address at Immanuel Presbyterian church.

In the afternoon the visiting delegates will attend Sunday schools in the different churches.

Mr. Geo. L. Mitchell will be the leader at a model Christian Endeavor prayer meeting at the First Presbyterian church at 7 P. M.

Morning Session Yesterday.

Following the quiet hour service which was conducted by Rev. H. W. Koelling, of this city, Rev. R. A. Lapsley, Jr., of Clarkton, made a stirring address on "Efficiency in Service." This was followed by a very profitable and interesting round table discussion led by Mr. H. G. Braxton, of Kinston. His theme was "Practical Christian Endeavor." There were many who joined in the discussion.

President Geo. L. Mitchell read greetings from Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of Christian Endeavor; the Williston Endeavor Society, of Portland, Me., Mr. Karl Lehmand, field secretary of Boston, Mass., and the State Unions of South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Maryland, Illinois and California.

The reports of the various officers were then taken up and continued until the close of the morning session, this feature having been completed at the session last night. In the afternoon the visiting delegates and the members of the local union went to Wrightsville Beach in special cars and spent the afternoon most pleasantly.

Rev. Wm. Hooper Adams awarded the banners last night. The first banner was donated by the Christian Endeavor Society of Barcelona, Spain, and was to go to the society making the best showing for the last three years. Only two societies—those of St. Andrew's church and the First Presbyterian church, of this city—were entitled to contest for the banner. Inasmuch as they were entertaining the State Union, the First Presbyterian Society had notified the committee that in the event that they were found to be entitled to it that they would give it to St. Andrew's. However, the latter society made the most number of points and was awarded this banner in its own right.

The banner for the Junior Society making the best showing was also awarded to the Junior Society of St. Andrew's church. The announcement of the awarding of these banners was greeted with hearty applause. Mr. B. Reynolds for the First Presbyterian church societies congratulated the winners.

The banner for general excellence was awarded to the society at Kenansville and Ashboro Street Friends' Society of Greensboro, each to keep it for six months. This is the first time that there has been a tie for the banner.

President Mitchell made a number of recommendations for the ensuing year which were adopted unanimously. A new office, this being a superintendent of the Quiet Hour and the Tenth Legion, was created but the officer for this position will not be selected until the meeting this evening.

Mr. Mitchell in expressing his gratitude for the honor conferred upon him a second time declared that he had done everything in his power to get the nominating committee to recommend the election of another man, but since they had not seen fit to do so he would endeavor the coming year to do everything in his power for the promotion of the State Union. His remarks were the occasion for an ovation from the large audience.

WHEAT AND OATS IN PENDER

Mr. B. F. Keith Produces Splendid Grain on His Farm—More Than Five Feet in Height.

The man who thinks this part of the country is not adaptable to the production of small grain should see the field sample sent to The Star yesterday by Mr. B. F. Keith, former collector of the port of Wilmington and fortunate proprietor of the Keith Farm, near Black River, in Pender county, a few miles from Currie. Mr. Keith harvested his wheat and oats a few days ago and he sends The Star a bundle of each grain. The straw of both the wheat and oats is nearly five feet in length, so that the crop must have stood more than five feet in the field.

A gentleman said yesterday that he had observed small grain growing in five states and that he would have to award the Keith Farm product the palm for being the best he ever saw, for both its straw body and the prolificness of the grain. Both the wheat and oats had massive heads and the matured kernels are plump and virile. Mr. Keith did not send any estimate of his production per acre, but if his crop was all over like the samples he sent, it should turn out not less than 60 bushels of grain an acre.

Mr. Keith grew this grain on drained swamp land and sowed 25 acres in wheat, oats and rye. As evidence that he is proud of the result, he declares in a letter that the man who says he cannot raise as fine crops of small grain as are grown anywhere has himself to blame—"not the soil, nor the climate, but the man." He sends the goods to prove what he says.

Mr. Keith writes that he planted rye so it can take the place of the roots of the long leaf pine for his hogs. He is prepared to say that it is both to the advantage of the hog and its owner. However, he pays tribute to the long leaf pine in saying that there is no tree of greater value anywhere than the pine, once a great resource in this section for naval stores. He thinks the Government ought to take charge of the remaining long leaf pine stock so it can be utilized for medical purposes.

The Keith Farm is in the Colly and Lyon swamp section of Pender county, and there are no finer agricultural lands to be seen anywhere. It is in a drainage district and the high type of lands reclaimed proves the tremendous value of scientific drainage for Eastern North Carolina. Mr. Keith not only has one of the finest farms in North Carolina, but is proprietor of the famous Colly Mill, a grist mill which was in operation during the Revolutionary war. He is about completing the construction of a fine residence, and around him is not only a land of marvelous richness, but a hospitality that is as generous as is the production of his farm.

WILL LOCATE NEW FOUNTAIN AT 17TH AND MARKET STREETS

Committee Selected Site Yesterday. Move Other Fountain.

The new fountain for birds and animals, to be presented to the city by the school children of Wilmington through the generosity of Miss Annie M. Dore, of Arlington, Mass., will be located at 17th and Market streets, the site having been decided upon yesterday at noon by the Councilmanic committee appointed by Mayor Moore for the purpose.

The committee, composed of Councilmen Bradshaw, Merritt and Bunting, accompanied by Mr. John J. Blair, city superintendent of schools, made the selection yesterday. The decision to locate the fountain at 17th and Market streets was reached after careful consideration. Three of the principal country roads leading into the city converge at this point, and it was felt that it would be of more service here than anywhere else.

The committee also decided to recommend to Council that the fountain for birds and animals now located at 15th and Market be moved to Fourth and Meares streets. Fourth street, since its improvement, is the artery for country traffic coming in from the southern section of the county, and at present there is no fountain on this thoroughfare.

The new fountain, to be placed at 17th and Market streets, has already arrived, and will probably be placed some time this week.

FUNERAL OF MRS. COWAN.

Sad Service Was Held from Residence Yesterday Morning.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret A. Cowan, widow of the late Capt. John Cowan, whose death occurred Thursday night, was conducted from the residence, No. 111 South Fourth street, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Milton, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. The services were attended by a large number of relatives and sorrowing friends. There were many beautiful floral tributes which showed in a measure the love and esteem of a large circle of acquaintances. Following the impressive but simple service at the home, the remains were borne tenderly to Oakdale cemetery for interment.

The pall-bearers were all nephews and grand-nephews of the deceased and were as follows: Honorary, Eugene S. Martin, A. G. Ricaud and Herbert McClammy, Esqs., and Messrs. R. P. McClammy and W. A. French; active, Thos. W. Davis, Esq., and Messrs. Junius Davis, Jr., John VanB. Metts, S. P. Cowan, R. C. DeRosset and E. A. Metts.

Capt. J. P. Russell to Speak.

Capt. J. P. Russell, of Lumberton, a delegate to the State Christian Endeavor Convention, will deliver an appropriate address at Immanuel Presbyterian church this morning at 11 o'clock. Captain Russell has the reputation of being a hustler and is also an earnest Christian Endeavorer. He is a fine speaker and his address will be of great interest to all who avail themselves of the privilege of hearing him.

When Glands Swell Blood Needs Attention

Even a Sweat Gland May Result in Severe Consequence.

In our intricate body the use of S. S. S. for the blood has a most remarkable influence. We little realize our glandular system. It may be a tiny bulb no bigger than a pin point, and yet if a disease germ gets into it, there is a tremendous swelling. It becomes a boil, a carbuncle, it may be a "blood rising," and it is often a source of continuous misery if not checked. Many of the most excruciating forms of torture begin with the swelling of a tiny gland, caused by a disease germ. And it is S. S. S. that spreads throughout the blood circulation to prevent just such conditions. Or if they have already started, S. S. S. will soon put the blood in such a state of health as to overcome the tendency to glandular swellings. It is a natural medicine for the blood, just as essential to health if the blood be impure, as are the meats, fats, grains and sugars of our daily food.

It contains one ingredient the active purpose of which is to stimulate the exchange of new flesh for dead or waste matter.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist, and if your case is stubborn, write to the Medical Adviser, The Swift Specific Co., 108 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. This department is in charge of a noted physician.

FORMER FAYETTEVILLE GIRL BRIDE OF WASHINGTON MAN

Washington, D. C., June 5.—The most interesting social event of Washington took place this evening at Ardnave, Montgomery county, Md., when Miss Annie Wright Huske, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clem L. Huske, formerly of Fayetteville, was married to Gustavus George Reiniger. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. F. Huske, of Newbern, a cousin of the bride.

The bride wore a gown of soft ivory satin, en train and simply cut. A pearl ornament held the train, which fell in a shimmering cascade from the back of the low-cut bodice. Her tulle veil was held in place by a rope of pearls and clusters of orange blossoms and a shower bouquet of orchids. Lilies of the valley completed a costume at once simple and elegant.

The matron of honor, Mrs. A. D. Dann, sister of the bride, and the maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth McGruder Neale, were gowned in flesh colored skirts and silver bodices and carried white staffs surmounted by clusters of orchids. Their fluffy hats of flesh color were trimmed with a single fresh pink orchid.

The bride came down the stairway on the arm of her father and passed through an aisle of pedestals and ribbons to the altar where she was met by the bridegroom.

Mr. Reiniger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin G. Reiniger, of Orange City, Ia. He was a member of the Naval Academy class of 1913, but has for the past two years been identified with business interests in Washington.

A reception followed the wedding ceremony. Among the out-of-town guests were Herbert Fairfax Huske, of Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. S. H. Way, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Johnston and Miss Alice Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Reiniger will take a midnight train for the West, where Mrs. Reiniger is to be matron of honor for Mr. Reiniger's sister, who will marry Starr Thayer on June 9.

The bride's going-away gown is a creation of dark blue gabardine with a chic sailor hat of black straw trimmed with a white wing under the brim.

"Ardnave" is an old Gaelic word, meaning "Mount of Happiness." This was the name of the Huske home in Scotland and of another home in North Carolina in 1673, and now of another in 1915 in Montgomery county, Md.

PETTY-THOMPSON WEDDING A BRILLIANT EVENT AT LUMBERTON

Lumberton, N. C., June 5.—The First Baptist church of this city was the scene Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock of a beautiful wedding, when Miss Sallie Lemuel Thompson, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thompson, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Edgar Petty, of Henderson. The decorations, a profusion of ferns and hydrangeas, carrying out a color scheme of pink and green, formed a fitting background for a lovely wedding.

Miss Lina Gough presided at the organ and the following programme was rendered immediately before the entrance of the bridal party: Organ prelude; Adoration from the Holy City, by Miss Gough. Mr .C. B. Skipper sang "O Promise Me," a violin number, "The Rosary" by Mr. Woodberry Lennon, and Miss Lillian Barker sweetly sang "I Love You."

The bride's pastor, Rev. Charles L. Greaves, then took his place at the altar and to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March beautifully rendered by Miss Gough, the bridal party entered the church in the following order: First the ushers, Dr. Raymond Thompson, of Charlotte, and Messrs. Lawrence Parker, Earle Thompson, and David Fuller, then the dame of honor, Mrs. Carey H. Kilgore, of Bishopville, S. C., gowned in blue crepe de chine with veil, carrying pink roses; next came the maid of honor, Miss Nannie Thompson, sister of the bride, gowned in pink crepe de chine and carrying white roses; next the ring bearer, little Shirley McPhaul, dainty in white lingerie, with white ribbons, carrying the ring on a silver tray.

The flower girls were little Misses Maitland and Vista Thompson, sister and cousin of the bride. They wore empire dresses of batiste with pink ribbons and carried baskets of sweet peas.

The bride was lovely in Charmeuse with chiffon trimmings, she wore a short veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley. She entered on the arm of her father, Mr. J. A. Thompson, and they were met at the altar by the groom and the best man, Mr. H. C. Petty, of Hamlet. Rev. Chas. L. Greaves, in a very impressive manner, spoke the few words which united this young couple, the beautiful ring service being used. During the ceremony Nevins Venetian Love Song was softly played by Miss Gough, Mendelssohn's march being used as the recessional.

The bride is the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thompson, of this city. She is a young lady of charming personality, justly popular among a wide circle of friends.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Petty, of Cameron. He is traveling auditor for the Seaboard Air Line Railway with headquarters at Henderson. The beautiful array of presents in silver, china, linen and cut glass, amply attest the popularity of this young couple.

The bride's going-away gown was blue cloth with hat, shoes and gloves to match. The happy couple left amid showers of congratulations and good wishes on the 6:30 train over the Seaboard for the Panama Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco.

Mr. H. T. Petty, of Cameron; Dr. Raymond Thompson, of Charlotte; Mr. D. H. Fuller, of Lumberton, and Mr. H. C. Petty of Hamlet, accompanied them as far as Hamlet, where Mr. H. C. Petty entertained the party at an elegant dinner at the Seaboard Hotel, after which they left at 9:10 on their 6,000 mile tour through the West.

Boys Having Big Time.

A telephone message received yesterday from Scoutmaster O. B. Hinnant from Camp Penton, at Lake Waccamaw, stated that the 30 Boy Scouts now encamped by the pretty lake are having the time of their lives. The advance guard of the aggregation went over Tuesday and the main force followed on Thursday. They will be at the lake for several weeks.

ROADS GOOD AS ANY IN STATE

State Highway Engineer Pleased With New Hanover's System of Improved Thoroughfares.

"Your county roads here are as good as any I have seen in the State, and your methods of maintaining the roads are along exactly the right lines."

This was the statement made yesterday to a Star man by Mr. W. S. Fallis, State Highway Engineer, with headquarters at Raleigh, who spent yesterday in Wilmington and who was carried on an inspection trip over New Hanover's system of improved roads by Mr. W. A. McGirt, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, and Mr. R. A. Burnett, county superintendent of roads.

Mr. Fallis works under the recently organized State Highway Commission, created by act of the last Legislature. Since the commission organized early in April he has visited 15 or more different counties, and says the good roads movement in North Carolina is gaining headway every day.

The Highway Commission is supervising the work of 10 or 15 road engineers paid by the counties in which they are at work, and is also employing several engineers who work under its direct supervision, assisting in the road work in other counties.

Especially commendatory was Mr. Fallis as to the methods of maintaining the improved roads in New Hanover county. Originally put down as water-bound macadam, the New Hanover roads have since been treated with Tarvia, and another application of this binder is now being applied to the roads. The result of this system, Mr. Fallis says, has been not only to keep the roads in as good condition as when they were first put down, but even to work an improvement in some instances. Few counties, he says, are maintaining their roads so well as is New Hanover, and he thinks this county is to be congratulated on the splendid progress it has made with its improved roads.

Mr. Fallis went over the strip of sand clay road at Greenville, and this, he believes, is as good as the average sand clay road anywhere.

Asked if he thought sand clay roads would prove economical in New Hanover county, he replied that in the rural communities he thought they would give satisfaction, but he would not recommend that they be laid near the city, where the constant and concentrated traffic would wear the surface away.

"I am certainly pleased with what I have seen here today," said Mr. Fallis, "and I hope to get back in 30 or 60 days to look over the work again, after they have completed applying the Tarvia that is now being distributed."

Mr. Fallis left on an evening train for Raleigh.

The Seashore Hotel orchestra will arrive the latter part of the week for the summer. Capt. Edgar L. Hinton, the popular manager, is looking forward to a most successful season.

The regular summer schedule of the Tidewater Power Company for the suburban line was put on yesterday. Cars are operated every half hour during the morning, afternoon and evening.

Among the arrivals at the Seashore Hotel yesterday were Ed Smith, Baltimore; F. J. Boyle, Philadelphia; L. M. Covington, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Mertze, Columbia; R. D. Dickson, Chapel Hill.

Among the arrivals at the Northrop cottage the past week were Mrs. B. W. Williams, little son and nurse, and Mrs. Bennett Stackhouse, Mullins, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Trent Coman, Charlotte; Mrs. Eugene Newman, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Kraker, Richmond.

"Open house" was observed at Cooleemee cottage, the beach headquarters of the Y. W. C. A., yesterday afternoon from 1 until 11 o'clock last night. There were a large number of visitors who called to inspect the rooms. There are many registrations for the cottage this month and the indications are that this will be one of the most popular places on the beach during the summer. Twelve young ladies went down yesterday afternoon and are having an enjoyable week-end house party.

The visiting delegates to the State Christian Endeavor Convention in session at the First Presbyterian church and the members of the local union had a most enjoyable outing at the beach yesterday afternoon. Three special cars left Front and Princess streets at 2:30 o'clock and went direct to Lumina. This was the first view of the ocean for many of the visitors and they were greatly interested in the many features of interest. Quite a number spent the night at the beach and enjoyed the delightful breezes. The surf bathing was delightful and there were many who took a dip in old ocean.

The hotel has been renovated throughout and a number of improvements including the enlarging of the lobby have been made. This hostelry has always had a large patronage and the prospects are very bright for this summer.

SERVE TEA AT LUMINA DURING SEASON'S DANCES

The Tidewater Power Company has decided to introduce a very novel feature at Lumina this year, beginning last night. Tea, both hot and cold, will be served. Boys will go among the dance spectators and take orders, which will be filled promptly. The very best tea will be used and fast service is promised. Later Chocolate may be served also.

FORMAL OPENING OF LUMINA LAST NIGHT

The season at Lumina began last night with a most successful dance, the first regular dance of the season. The attendance was unusually large for this time of the year, there being 500 or 600 people at the pavilion. The music was furnished by the new orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Fry, of Philadelphia, which created a very favorable impression.

The music was bright and attractive and full of snap. It could be easily seen that the orchestra was fully up to the high standard of any of the orchestras that have played at Lumina in the past. During the evening dainty favors were given to all ladies present. The favors were carnations and other cut flowers.

The affair was one of the most attractive "opening nights" that has ever taken place at Lumina and if it can be taken as an indication a most successful season is predicted.

WANTED HIS CLOTHES.

Recorder, However, Finds That Negro Took Too Many Things.

James Harvin, colored, who was before the Recorder yesterday on a charge of larceny, said that he wanted his clothes, which he claimed were in a trunk belonging to Flossie Belle Allen, also colored. The latter alleged that he stole her rings, muff and other things. The Recorder found from the evidence that he was guilty of the charge, and gave him 60 days on the county roads. Through his attorney, Wm. J. Bellamy, Esq., Harvin served notice of an appeal to Superior Court, and his bond was fixed at $50, which he was unable to give, and went to jail.

A case against Henry Brown, colored, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was continued until Monday for trial.

THEATRICAL

Heading the bill at the Grand tomorrow is Charlie Chaplin, the funniest man in the show game, in a two-reel comedy, "The Jitney Elopement." This is one of his latest since joining the Essanay Company and is said to be the funniest he has worked in. It starts off with a chuckle and ends with a roar and all the funny business leading up to the elopement puts you just right to enjoy the elopement in the jitney auto. It is two reels of uproarious comedy.

"A Child of the North", a two-reel Vitagraph, is a strong well woven drama of the North. In the latter part of the story when heavy falls of snow have covered the ground and ice covered streams the scenes shown are of transcendent beauty. The final picture with the little half-breed heroine frozen to death in her canoe will be long remembered. The work of Margaret Gibson as the Indian girl is especially good.

Another splendid two-reel number is the Broncho "Shorty Among the Cannibals." "Shorty" is deep in Robinson Crusoe" and falls asleep and has a terrible dream, thought he was a stowaway on a pirate ship and put a mouse in the captain's soup and set the ship on fire for all of which he was of the opinion he had best leave the ship, so got into a boat and sailed away and landed among the cannibals on a lonely island where he has some thrilling adventures that are too good to miss.

At the Victoria Monday.

Writing in the Motion Picture News Clifford H. Pangburn says of the Edison Company's five-part production of C. N. Williamson's novel, presented on the Paramount Programme, and showing tomorrow at the Victoria:

"Perhaps the most striking features of this picture are the originality of the plot, and the skill with which the suspense element has been introduced. When a man supposedly hung some years before is seen living in a secret apartment in his own home it is bound to result in the closest attention, and a genuine interest in the incidents which have made this strange situation possible. Such is that of the principal in the film.

"The excellence of the story is accounted for by the fact that it is a dramatization of the novel of the same name by Mrs. C. N. Williamson, and the thousands of readers of this book will be much pleased to see it on the screen."

Viola Dana in "The House of the Last Court," Victoria Monday.

A Stirring Scene From "COURT-MARTIALED" THE THRILLING IMP MILITARY DRAMA

Great War Drama at the Bijou.

Few dramas produced since the start of the great European conflict have told as powerful a story as "Court Martialed," an Imp four-reel production recently released by the Universal. The scenario of this timely feature was by Raymond Schrock, and the all-star cast includes Hobart Henley, Frances M. Nelson, Allen Holubar, William Welsh and Howard Crampton, five of the very greatest and strongest dramatic stars on the Universal list, combined to make a de luxe production that would rival anything produced during the year.

"Court Martialed" tells in a series of striking episodes the story of a young French officer and his career of deception and wrong-doing. Stopping at nothing in his desperation, he even robs his father and wrongs his best friend. Finally, through his mother's pleadings, he confesses and pays the penalty to which another man has been condemned to in his stead.

It is a striking and timely presentation of a true-to-life incident, and right at this time, with all the real atmosphere of France and the knowledge of the exciting incidents that are daily happening at the seat of war right in one's mind, it should prove the most interesting offering of the year. It has been condensed into a four-reel production, but the action and the story would warrant six reels, were it produced by any other than the Universal.

MANY WORRIED VISITORS AT AMERICAN EMBASSY

Brought by Announcement That Germans in England Will be Interned.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)

London, May 29.—The announcement that all Germans in England are to be interned or repatriated has brought a flood of worried visitors to the American Embassy, which is now entrusted with the task of caring for the interests of Germans in England.

Most of the visitors are German women, who regard with the greatest apprehension the idea of being sent to Germany. Some of them expressed a desire to be allowed to go to the United States instead, declaring that the task of finding a living would be much simpler there than in Germany.

When war broke out there was a large number of German women clerks, typewriters, students, commercial travelers and tourists, but these with few exceptions have been already repatriated. The women who are here now are mainly wives of German men who have been interned, or middle-aged German women who have lived here so long that they have lost touch with their own country. Although their sympathies are generally German, they have no desire to go into the midst of war's alarms, or to be thrown on their own resources in Germany at a time of peculiar economic tension like the present.

Few of them, however, have been able to find work in England since the war began, with the exception of the German cooks, who are apparently just as much sought after in English families as before the war.

There has been a considerable amount of privation and suffering among self-supporting German women in England and among women married to interned Germans here. Only 1 per cent of the German men at large in England on May 1 were employed, and there was much poverty. The German government, through the American authorities, makes an allowance in needy cases, paid through the German Benevolent Society. The allowance amounts to $2.50 a week, plus 75 cents a week for each child, and is paid to German wives of interned Germans. The English government makes a grant of about the same amount to the English wives of interned Germans.

STRAWBERRY SHIPMENTS

Total From Mount Olive Below the Usual Average.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Mount Olive, N. C., June 5.—At the close of the strawberry season here, the account of shipments kept by the railroad people shows that from this point about 25,000 crates were shipped, which sold at an average of not more than $1.50 per crate, probably hardly that much. This is several thousand crates short of last year's shipments, the farmers being compelled to cease shipping because of unprofitable returns.

Predicted This War in 1913

Here is a man who claims to have predicted this war a year before it happened and proves his claim conclusively; offers free life readings to all. A splendid opportunity for our readers to put him to a test.

In September 1913 the well known Prof. Roxroy, of The Hague, Holland, distributed thousands of his astral indications for the year 1914, all over the world to his clients, and amongst other things he said the following: "A bereavement in Royal circles — mind you, not the mere passing away of a Monarch, but a very sudden and gruesome demise will affect most of the crowned heads of Europe."

Could anything be more plainly said than this? Has ever the death of a Royal personage affected so many Monarchs and involved so many countries in war as the assassination of the Archduke Ferdinand of Ausria-Hungary and his Wife has done? This is certainly an additional proof of this man's most mysterious and unfailing power to foretell the coming events.

If you want to know something about your life, health, finance, travel, speculation, marriage, business, relations, or questions pertaining to this war, etc., or about those who are affected by this terrible crisis, write to him at once. All he wants is the name, address and birth date. He does not ask for any money, but if you like you may enclose 10 cents (stamps of your own country) to pay for postage and clerical work. Postage to Holland 5 cents. Address your letters to Prof. Roxroy (Suite 2679-A), No. 24 Groote Markt, The Hague, Holland.

(We are informed that Prof. Roxroy's office is open as usual and all letters are safely delivered and collected in Holland.)

Spent to Fortify Goodyear Tires

Our experts say: "If Goodyear tires were built like some others, our saving would be $1,635,000 per year—$5,450 per day."

The difference would hardly be visible when the tire is complete. But it would probably cost our users a million dollars monthly.

Better Still

But, instead of skimping Goodyear tires, we are building them better still.

Goodyear Fortified tires, for many years, have embodied five costly features exclusive to these tires. We still employ them all.

We spend on experts $100,000 yearly to find new betterments to add. In the past year alone we have added improvements which cost us exceeding $500,000 per year.

Lower Prices

Yet Goodyear prices are constantly coming down. Our last big reduction—on February 1st — made three in two years, totaling 45%.

In view of those facts, don't you think it worth while to get Goodyears? Most men do. Goodyears have long outsold any other tire. They are selling now much faster than we can build them. Any dealer will supply you.

EIGHT O'CLOCK In The MORNING

ON JUNE 10TH, AT EIGHT O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING, my doors will open on one of the greatest Sales ever held in Wilmington. My semi-annual offer on Men's Made-to-Measure Tailoring has always been an important event in the commercial activities of this township, but the one about to open will transcend all its predecessors in the stupendous values I intend to offer. I will hold to my previous prices, but in each instance the intrinsic value of the fabrics will be greater than before. I have carefully selected every fabric and made my arrangements in such a way that I am in a position to give MORE for your money than I have ever done in my long career as a reputable merchant in this community. On the stupendous value of each and every fabric I stake my reputation. No matter which you may select you will receive in return a tailoring bargain which is absolutely unprecedented. The sale will start the moment my doors open on Thursday morning and the best choice of the fabrics will go to early callers. I have grouped the fabrics into two classes—one lot to sell at $13.50 the two-piece suit and the other at $19.00. The former comprises a collection of fine all-wool fabrics whose regular prices run up to $25, while the latter sale price buys the highest grade of woolens, which sell regularly from $25 to $35. Every suit bought at this sale will represent money SAVED to you and big money at that.

LUMBERTON NOW HAS TWO HOTEL MOVEMENTS

Winter Overcoats Brought Into Use the Past Week

Sunday Train to Wilmington After July 11—Revival Meetings Begin Today—Woodmen Plan Big Day—Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., June 5.—Ground having been broken for the erection of a hotel by Mr. H. H. Anderson, has brought about more hotel talk. It will be recalled that a movement was started here last summer to build a hotel by a stock company, sufficient stock was subscribed, the contract let, and everything looked like hotel until the business depression came on, and then the matter was deferred. Now, it is said, the plans of the then proposed hotel have been changed; it will not cover so much as was originally intended, but will be erected in the near future.

It is staoishrdluetaoincmfwypjpjufm stock has been called for. The stock company seems to have the lot upon which to build and must do something. In the meantime, Mr. Anderson has the brick on the ground to build his hotel, and the question with some is, will two hotels in Lumberton pay? The travelling public would be delighted to see one at least, with sufficient capacity. The Thompson hotel, with its limited facilities, is giving good service.

Overcoats in Use.

The week closing today has been classed by some as regular October weather in this section. The first four days brought almost a continual shower of rain and cool enough for fire and overcoats. On the first day of June several gentlemen were seen here wearing their winter overcoats, which they said were not at all uncomfortable. Yesterday the sun came out bright and had people pulling their hats down over their eyes to protect them from the light. There has been much anxiety about crops on account of the continued rain, but if the weather should continue for a week as at present, it would be only a matter of a short time before rain would be needed to put down the dust.

The spring term of the Lumberton graded school came to a close yesterday, the closing address being delivered by Prof. M. C. S. Noble, of the University of North Carolina. A large crowd was in attendance and plainly showed that they were delighted with the address. The session of the school which has just closed has been one of, i fnot the very best in its history. In superintendent Sentelle Lumberton has one of the best in the State, while his corps of teachers could not be excelled by those of any town. With the hearty co-operation of all the people, Lumberton could have a school second to none to be found in any town of its size. The non-resident teachers are now leaving for their respective homes, some to return in the fall while others will teach elsewhere, it is understood.

Another Train on Seaboard.

The Star man has been officially informed that the Seaboard will operate a Sunday train between Hamlet and Wilmington, beginning Sunday, July 11, and will continue it through July and August if the travel will justify. This is done in order that working people, who cannot get off during the week, may have a few hours recreation at the beach. The fare for the round trip will be $1.25. Six or seven hours will be given at Wilmington and at the beach.

A good many from this section went to Richmond this week to attend the meeting of the Confederate Veterans, and those who have returned say the trip was pleasant, except for the continued downpour of rain. While the wet, cold weather put a damper on the spirit of the gathering, most of the programme was carried out. Among those who went from here was Mr. Calvin Smith, who had not seen Richmond since the war.

A protracted meeting will begin at the First Baptist church tomorrow, to continue ten days or two weeks. The pastor, the Rev. C. L. Greaves, will be assisted by Dr. Wilson, of Richmond, Va., who is expected to arrive Monday night. He assisted in a meeting here a year or two ago, during which he made many friends who will be delighted to welcome him again.

Woodmen Plan Big Day.

The Woodmen of the World are planning a big picnic here on Monday, July 5. Woodmen from three counties and perhaps others are expected to participate. There will be a big Woodmen parade, speeches by prominent members of the order, a big dinner, various kinds of races and other interesting attractions. The railroads are advertised to give reduced raes, and all Woodmen, their families and friends are expected to be here.

A smart, well dressed negro blew into town yesterday and claimed to be advertising some kind of a big-named show coming in a few days to one of the local theatres "direct from New York." He began selling tickets among the colored people for the attraction, and when the evening train came in from Wilmington he boarded it, carrying with him several dollars contributed by unsuspecting colored "suckers."

During the week two automobile-buggy collisions have occurred on the streets here, but no serious damage was done in either case. At a meeting of the town authorities last night an ordinance was passed regulating traffic and requiring vehicles of any nature to keep to the right. The speed limit will be enforced to the letter.

The Dixie Cafe, for several years located in the old Columbia hotel building has moved into Mr. A. W. McLean's new building between Mr. John P. McNeill's store and the Star theatre. It has not been learned who will occupy the place vacated by the Dixie.

"Don't Spit on Sidewalk."

Spitting on the sidewalk has been greatly reduced since the chief of police was given instructions to enforce the law, which is an old one.

As a result of the heavy rains this week, Lumber river got on a big swell, but is now going down about as fast as it came up, so that all fears of a damaging freshet have vanished.

The fact that flies can be exterminated has been fully demonstrated in Lumberton. With co-operation, flies can be made almost as scarce as blue birds in town. The "home-made" wire trap set around does the work.

Miss Annie Ruth Caldwell, a student of the Boston Conservatory of Music, arrived here last night to spend her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Caldwell.

Town Clerk and Treasurer Page has received from the State Insurance Department a check for $90.62 which amount goes to the firemen's relief fund.

NOBLE AT LUMBERTON APPEALS FOR PROGRESS

University Professor Delivers Stirring Address.

Chief Speaker at Closing Exercises of Graded School—Diplomas Awarded to 12 Students—Medals Awarded—Finals Friday.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., June 5.—Friday marked the close of the commencement exercises of the Lumberton Graded school which had been in progress here all the week. The exercises Friday consisted of the grandating exercises, an address by Prof. M. C. S. Noble, of the University of North Carolina, and the awarding of the McLeod medals.

The programme carried out by the graduating class was as follows: Address of welcome, by Annie Burt Stainback; class history, by Rufus Sanderson; class poem, by Carrie Mae Hedgepeth; Miss Lucille Jones rendered a vocal solo which was enjoyed very much; class prophecy written by Vivien McNeil and read by Lulu Edwards; Trophy by Sadie Ray Pope, last will and testament, Sadie Thompson; salutatory, Martha Britt.

Following these exercises was a selection by the school orchestra after which the audience stood and sang "America."

Professor Noble's address was very simple in words: He clothed great thoughts in understandable language. His address was by far one of the best ever given here. His subject was "Discontent."

"I know Lumberton by what I have seen in papers and by what I have seen at Chapel Hill in flesh," declared the speaker. He said that he had watched the boys in the debaters' contests held at Chapel Hill for the last few years and had found out that, if any one beat them debating, they had to work and work hard. The boys have had fine training under Mr. Sentelle, declared the speaker. He said that he was a good judge of the matter and knew whereof he spoke.

The speaker said that he had studied some three or four different languages and he had always found in all of them that nothing ever got to be better that "good." It was good and then best. He urged the people, the boys and girls not to be contented with anything but the best and the very best of that.

"Satisfaction is the worst disease that a man can get," declared the speaker. He said when a man got the idea into his head that he was satisfied with conditions as they were that he was in a pretty bad fix. He said that when he was a boy he used to go to prayer meeting and they would sing that dear old song, "To Be Nothing" and it was a pretty song and he enjoyed singing it very much and a lot of people got religion singing it. "But times have changed," the speaker stated.

The speaker said that the people had a good school here and he was proud of it, but he advised them all to pull together and see if they could not have a better school next year. He urged them not to be content with any kind of school but the very best and let their discontent speak out so loud that they would have a better school next year than this.

He gave as an illustration of what discontent would do for a man and for a community, the great discovery that Columbus made when he discovered America. The speaker put to the people very plainly that discontent was the mother of all inventions and discoveries. He said that Columbus was not satisfied with the route that the people went to India because it was too long, but thought that there was a nearer way and was not content until he found it. If it had not been for discontent your Scotch ancestors would never have come over here and landed over here near thetaoinshrdd "They were not content with the life that they were living and the place that they were living at and as a result they came to North Carolina," declared the speaker. He told his audience that he did not want them to get it into their heads that it was the grouchy kind o fdiscontent that he wanted them to have and should have, the kind of discontent to go home and be grouchy because things were not as they like them to be, but to reach for things that meant something to themselves and the country.

Professor Noble brought out quite clearly the side some politicians and other people took when any money was wanted to build a high school building or anything of the kind. He said that they would remark that they were in favor of it and all and anything else that meant the upbuilding of the community, but that the people were not able to pay for it and it would be imposing a hardship upon them to put it on them.

"We have money enough here to do anything that we want to do," declared the speaker. "I notice a good many automobiles around and judging from that we are not at all poor," he declared. He said that he knew what the feeling of a poor man was and knew one when he saw him but that the people here had plenty of money.

He urged the people not to be satisfied with the school that they have at present and not to be one of those who said that they were in favor of the very best school facilities but were not able to pay the tax, but on the other hand to let their discontent be like unto that of Columbus and be the first town of its size in America to have a high school building. "You can have it if you want it," he declared. He said that the school house would be a place where every one could gather and be proud of it regardless of what church they belonged to.

Diplomas Awarded.

Diplomas were awarded to the following: Carrie Mae Hedgepeth, Vivian McNeill, Lelia Edwards, Sadie Thompson, Rosa Wishart, Rufus Sanderson, Mary Wetmore, Annie Burt Stainback, Sallie King, Sadie Ray Pope, Eulia Mcgill, Martha Britt, following the awarding of two medals given by Mr. Alf H. McLeod, a member of the school board. One of these medals was given to the student who made the highest average in the intermediate or grammar grades and one to the student making the highest average on their studies in the high school department. Margaret Pendelson was the winner of the medal in the elementary department and Jeanette Biggs in the high school department.

The medals were presented by Mr. L. R. Varser, chairman of the school board.

PRINTERS' BUREAU ORGANIZED

Project at Mount Olive to Bring Printers and Jobs Together.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Mount Olive, N. C., June 5.—Announcement has just been made of the organization here of what is to be known as the Southern Printers' Bureau, whose object seems to be twofold, namely, to provide steady employment for printers and to furnish publishers with printers; in other words, to bring publisher and printer—employer and employe—together.

According to plans now being worked out, an up-to-date printing plant is to be installed for the purpose of issuing monthly bulletins and other news of interest to printers and publishers. A membership fee of $1 per year will be charged all printers, while publishers will be furnished the names of printers seeking employment free of charge.

PARKER, N. C., MAN GETS QUICK RELIEF

W. R. Davenport Better After First Dose of Remedy.

W. R. Davenport of Parker, N. C., long suffered from a peculiar malady of the stomach. He sought treatment with but little relief. At times it seemed that he would have to give up hope.

He took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and found immediate benefit. He wrote:

"For years I have suffered from a disease which puzzled doctors. They termed it catarrh of the stomach, saying the only hope would be a change of climate, and that in all probability I would never get well. Then I heard of your remedy. One bottle gave me instant relief. It made me feel like a new man. Your full course of treatments has about cured me. Several of my friends have also been cured."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

WITH THE MAN IN THE STREET

America—the Hope of the World—Over the seas a civilization is being blotted out in endless fire and blood—in the death grapple of a dozen nations the progress of countless centuries slowly crumbles away. It is the long night in Europe, and the dawning is not in sight.

And, even though many of us do not realize it as yet, the pressure of the present disruption in Europe—physical and spiritual—is exerting a tremendous influence upon America, and a people are being born again.

For the eyes of a Universe are turned to America in this hour of the Old World's supreme decadence—eyes watching wistfully the birth of the Highest Hope.

The hour of America's greatest opportunity is at hand—the opportunity to justify for all time the faith of her founders. And all the bigness and beauty of the Vision has not yet dawned upon her people.

The opportunity is at hand for America to become the Temple of the New Spirit—the cradle of a new World-Soul, that will spread beyond the Nation-Soul and stretch away into the limitless possibilities of the greatest and Grandest Age—the Age of the Brotherhood of Man.

This is something of the vision behind the recent public utterances of Woodrow Wilson, the Master-Man. His eyes are turned to the dawn of the New Era—his ears are attuned to the song of Mankind's Grandest Dream.

Before him lies America—bearing the hope of the World.

Life's Grim Tragedy—To walk in the crowd, to be one of the multitude, and yet to know that there is not one in all the world who is really a friend—that is tragedy. There are many in Wilmington of this class. There are scores of people with sympathetic hearts, hundreds who would go out of their way to help the unfortunate, but they dare not run counter to the rules and regulations of society. Their motives would be misunderstood, their standing in the community would be impugned, they cannot afford to turn a friendly ear to the mute calls that come from the faces of the neglected and down-trodden men and women all about them.

These kind-hearted, noble souls, willing and anxious to be of help to their fellowman, go to and fro from day to day, all unconscious in many cases of the grim tragedy that lies all about them. They answer all calls for help that come to them, but the mute desire for sympathy and love that come from many of the so-called outcasts of society pass unheeded.

The self-satisfied air, the self-conscious superiority of those who have achieved success and who have friends, burn deep into the souls of those who have failed in the battle of life. The world goes on and they try to forget, but in vain. They resign themselves to their position, and not being gifted with a will that enables them to climb out, remain where they are. Ambition burns not in their bosom, aspiration has long since been dead, and contentment with the sordid and mean must be their lot.

And yet could they—those of the common herd as the world thinks of them—could they but know that all about them in the passing crowds are men and women who although their faces and their general demeanor do not show it—even they have learned what it means to suffer. There are a hundred things they have to endure that makes life hard. They have only aspiration for higher things left.

They have still left, however, the will to do, to strive and not to yield. This makes all the difference.

It is the soul of man that counts for most.

The Thing Worth While—Our philosopher friend sat in his office chair after the day's work was done and discoursed wisely about life and its duties. There was in his face a look of calm satisfaction for he felt that he had done a good day's work. He was sure that he could not have done better and even if he could he wasn't worrying about things that can't be helped.

"Don't you know that I have come to believe after all that the thing worth while for the average man," he confided to his visiting friend, "is that of being able to achieve something in this world of hurly-burly. All things else count for naught. It is this desire to leave behind something permanent that furnishes the impulse for noble actions and constant striving. All things are used as a means to this end.

"And it is a noble ambition I think. There are so many burdens to bear and so many worries to contend with that we are apt to become discouraged if there is nothing to strive for. But if we have in mind some goal to reach, some task to perform, some good that we can do, some friend we can help, some person we can make happier, if there are any one of a dozen things that I might name, we can accomplish, we find life infinitely worth while.

"No, I am not going to preach a sermon but do you know that the one eternal tragedy that impresses me most is that the average man or woman is satisfied with so little. They get into a "rut" and there they stick. They leave out most of the things worth while in their lives and are content if they can simply live. How much better it would be if they could get the broader view, the wider vision, and would endeavor to so live and act that when the end comes they will be glad that they lived."

Our friend stopped in the midst of his speech for just then he remembered he had promised his wife he would be home an hour earlier than usual in order that he might go visiting that night.

"Oh, yes, I am glad to go," he declared as he put on his coat and hurried out of the office. "You know I have made up my mind to take life cheerfully no matter what happens or what may come. It's the only way."

The Woman of the Streets—She sat in the police station, where she had been taken after being arrested for vagrancy, and when the idle and curious ones endeavored to get a view of her face she turned and looked—not at them—but at the wall. She was well dressed, she did not appear to be an outcast and yet she knew not one of those who stared at her had any interest in her welfare except to find out what kind of creature she was. It was the same curiosity that prompts one to see a new and strange sort of animal.

She knew that not one of them cared whether or not she went to jail or remained at home. And yet she was a woman. There was intelligence in her face, there may have been a heart that longed for human sympathy and love. But she was an outcast and she didn't care—not much—but there was left enough of pride to look the other way—at the wall. She wasn't interested in life except from a purely selfish standpoint—perhaps. She had long since given up hope—why should she hope? Only to live and make the most of it—and then the end.

She was well dressed. She did not have the appearance of being an outcast. And yet she was. When at length there came a man—a strong stalwart man—who placed the money on the desk for her bond he did not go out with her. After a few whispered words he walked out ahead of her and left her behind. She walked out the door—alone. She went down the street and the idle and the curious looked at her wonderingly. They gossiped about her and not one said a word of pity. No one cared. She had been arrested—but she didn't care—perhaps. Why should she?

At the end it will be the same. Only for a few short years will she have to live—and all those years an outcast. Men can wreck their lives in disgrace and then reform. But she can't. There is nothing except for her to remain an outcast. She can expect no sympathy not even from the men who stand in the pulpit and preach the Gospel of peace and good will. She can expect none from the Christian men and women who would fain reform the world from its sin and degradation. She certainly isn't expecting it from those who have no interest in anything except the passing show.

The Spirit of Youth—Springtime and youth have always been closely associated. There is joy and gladness associated with happy children and the coming of spring is the signal for the breaking forth of life in a myriad form. Even the sordid and mean, the hopeless and the despondent, the old and infirm, catch a new vision and gather renewed inspiration under the magic spell of the spring season or the merry chatter of little children.

People laugh at the young swain who writes love poems and sentimental tommy rot when spring comes, but why shouldn't he? Spare him the privilege of being as happy as he can. Allow him to exercise his imagination in fields that stretch into the infinite recesses of the universe about him that is full of meaning if he can but unlock it. His mind may be circumscribed by a thousand limitations and he may be able to catch but a tiny bit of the hidden joy that comes from a perfect understaning of the manifold secrets of God's world, but spare him the privilege of getting what little inspiration he can from addressing sentimental effusions to a woman who may be as homely as the figurative mud fence.

The chatter of little children brings men to a fresh realization of the meaning of life. It gives them courage to press on in the fight and enables them to know that after all in spite of the pain and the suffering and the troubles that life is worth while. Pessimistic souls may revile against wickedness and degradation, but in the presence of youth, with its hope and its gladness, they are compelled to admit that it is not so bad as it seems.

Hope springs eternal in the human breast and this is made possible by youth and the spring time when nature is shown renewing herself and showing forth the wonderful possibilities of a world that is being constantly re-made and rejuvenated.

Cats And Their Ways—In Wilmington as in every other city or town or hamlet there are cats in profusion and of many kinds. During the day they are quiescent and are not to be seen but as soon as the old town assumes a look of peace after the late callers have gone to their homes and all is calm and serene then come forth—cats. They roam the streets, they set up awful squawls in backyards to disturb the slumbers of those who have earned a night of rest after a day of toil.

Cats toil not neither do they have to be bothered with the petty problem of making a living. While the sun shines and the world is at work they bask themselves on front porches and rest in the yards in order to be able to prowl and seek what they may devour after a self-respecting world is seeking repose.

We read the other day a sentimental lot of stuff about the cat that sleeps in the barn, the cat that catches rats, the cat that is friendly and respectable. It was written by an admirer of cats but we not yet have found a defender of the cat that chases around after midnight, engaging in mischievous fights with other cats of habits and making an awful lot of racket.

Walk down Front street after midnight and at any street corner can be found from two to a half dozen cats. In every yard almost are also to be found cats. They scoot down dark alleys. It hardly seems possible that there could be so many cats in one town.

Whoever said that cats were not possessed of a certain amount of vanity and do not value the opinion of the human species didn't know about Wilmington cats. Not long since a man walked briskly down Front street and seeing two cats in the middle of the street just preparing to engage in what appeared to be a fight to the finish stopped to see the fur fly. The cats raised an awful squawl and rent the air with their shrieks. It seemed that a fight was imminent. However, as soon the onlooker became perfectly still and the cats were convinced that he was not in sight each backed off and presently ran down the street. If it was not their purpose to secure the good opinion of the onlooker as to their fighting ability why did they not have the fight?

Anyway, they reminded him of some men he knows who make a great noise wherever they think anybody is around and speedily become quiet as lambs when the opportunity for a grandstand play is over.

NEED OF CHARITY LITTLE LESSENED; COMMISSION WORK.

Relief Commission Does All It Can With Good System But Not Enough.

Mr. Alexander J. Hemphill, treasurer of the Commission for Relief in Belgium, of 71 Broadway, New York, has given out the following statement:

"Despite the elaborate financial system devised and put into operation by the Commission for Relief in Belgium, whereby the aid that has been extended to the women, children and non-combatants of Belgium has been reduced to a business basis, the charity of the world, and of the United States in particular, is still needed to feed the destitute of that country.

"According to the latest report of the commission in London, it has been made possible for the commission to enable fully seventy-five per cent of the Belgians to utilize their own energies and resources without recourse to charity. This is accomplished by a system of money exchange adopted by the commission which, by agreement with the Belgians themselves, receives paniments in gold for accounts due to the Belgians by persons or institutions abroad, and in turn pays over to them equal amounts in the paper currency of the kingdom., which has no value outside of that country, but which the commission has accepted and a is accepting as payment for the food provided.

"Since its inception, the commission has done all in its power to help the Belgians help themselves. All people in that distressed country who have been able to pay for their food have been obliged to do so, and the monies thus obtained have been expended in the purchase of more food. In this way the capital supplied by the Belgian people has been used again and again, with the result that the commission has bought and carried into Belgium (including the cargoes contracted for and to be delivered) food to the value of nearly $65,000,000.

"It is the vastness of these figures that has misled many people in the United States into the belief that if such apparently unlimited capital were behind the operations of the commission there should be no further need of the world's charity.

"But right here it should be remembered that there are in round numbers about 1,700,000 Belgian people who are absolutely destitute, and it is this one-fourth of the country's population that must be fed, although they cannot pay for their food.

The other three-fourths, through the credit system of the commisison, are barely able to pay for their own food, and the charity of the United States and the other neutral countries is as greatly needed as ever. It will not fail, for although Uncle Sam did his duty when the first Macedonian cry, 'Come and help us!' was heard, and did not pass by on the other side and leave the sorely wounded people to perish of famine, he is just as ready to answer a second or a third duty call, and to keep on answering as long as Belgium's necessities last."

William C. Edgar, editor of The Northwestern Miller, who had charge of the record flour cargo sent to Belgium by the millers of the Northwest, the cargo being valued at $600,000, recently returned from Belgium, where he witnessed the transformation of his flour into bread, and its consumption by the Belgians, said after his return:

"After my personal observations in Belgium I am able to state without the slightest cental reservation whatever, that, although I have had occasion to inspect many methods of public relief in various countries, I have never before seen one that can compare in efficiency, thoroughness and wisdom with the system now being employed in Belgium through the combined efforts of the Commission for Relief in Belgium and the Comite National, an emergency organization. In thus making such an unqualified expression of confidence I speak as the result of careful study into the methods being used and my personal observations, both in the large cities and provinces of Belgium. Americans may well be proud of the Commission and men directing it. It deserves their absolute confidence and support. I have never been given to flag-flapping, but after seeing what is being done in Belgium I salute the Stars and Stripes, with added humility and respect, not only as the flag of my country, but the emblem of humanity."

ADDRESS OF MRS. E. P. BAILEY ON JOHN LAWSON, HISTORIAN

Delivered at Unveiling of Memorial by Colonial Dames.

On the occasion of the unveiling of the John Lawson memorial by the Colonial Dames of Wayne county at Goldsboro on Tuesday, June 1, Mrs. E. P. Bailey, of Wilmington, president of the North Carolina Society of Colonial Dames of America, who was greeted with applause, spoke as follows:

Mr. Burke, the great orator and scholar said: "The man who cared not for his ancestry cared nothing for his posterity." The Colonial Dames of America, following the object for which the organization was formed, are preserving the manuscripts, traditions and relics of the olden days; are restoring the buildings connected with the early history of the country; and today, are honoring the memory of a man whose ability, valor, suffering and achievements in the early days of the colonies should be perpetuated and kept in lively remembrance.

John Lawson, the first historian of North Carolina, is a name that should not perish from the earth. His works are filled with interest to those even of this day, and his hearty sympathy with everything that pertained to North Carolina, her flowers, her soil, her animals and reptiles, her bays and rivers, her swamps and marshes, are described by him with the sincerity of a lover and with the devotion that comes only with the enthusiasm of the devotee.

His journey from South Carolina through the western and central portions of the State to the settlements of the Neuse river section, looking for a highway to connect the southern settlements of South Carolina with the colonies in Virginia, is a long march filled with many exciting episodes and interesting incidents, many hardships and difficulties, and with stories of the habits and customs of the Indians with whom he lived while on the journey.

In September, 1711, on account of jealousies aroused in the hearts of the Indians by men who persuaded them that Lawson and his friends were making encroachments on their domain and conspiring to evict them from their hunting grounds, Lawson, while on a trip up the Neuse river to select the route for the highway leading to the Virginia colony, was seized, together with his friend, Baron De-Graffenreid, carried immediately before the Indian chiefs, and a council being called, they were condemned to death.

De Graffenreid freed himself by representing himself to be a king in his own country and an especial friend of the Queen of England who would avenge his death should they kill him, but Lawson was held and put to death by fire torture, a most inhuman and cruel form of execution, filling the skin with lightwood splinters and setting them afire.

Thus perished the colonial surveyor-general and the historian by a savage mode of execution, in strange and unhappy contrast with the friendly and humane sentiments he had expressed in his history in regard to the proper treatment and welfare and happiness of these original inhabitants of the Carolinas.

And now, Mr. Chairman, in behalf of the Colonial Dames of North Carolina, I present to the City of Goldsboro and county of Wayne this mnument to John Lawson, the surveyor-general, the writer and historian of North Carolina.

It is the earnest wish that it may aid posterity to learn aright the history of the stirring times in which he lived, and inspire in the hearts of all a more abiding affection for the State where he wrought so well, and whose waters and shores and lands and swamps filled him with an enthusiastic devotion and everlasting love.

Safety+Quickness

"Safety First" must ever be the watchword in firearms. But safety must not be secured at the expense of quick action. The Colt Automatic Pistol combines the most dependable kind of safety—automatic safety—with instant firing.

The Colt can't be discharged accidentally, because the trigger must be pulled and the safety in the grip must be pressed in at the same instant and this can't be done except it is done purposely. So much for safety.

As for quickness, the Colt always gets there first, for in an emergency you don't have to bother with or think about the grip safety—it takes care of itself and you.

Dependability——versus——Ingenious Claims

MORE than 75 Concerns now manufacture Tires.

We believe that everyone of these makes as good Tires as he knows how, at the lowest Cost his Experience, Equipment and Methods make possible.

We believe that the average Tire Manufacturer is fair in his treatment of Adjustments, and that few deliberately misrepresent their product, either verbally or in Print.

We believe that no Tire Manufacturer can afford to make statements in print about his product, which statements cannot be borne out by the performance of his Tires, in actual use.

We believe that the Tire has never been made which will not "Rim-Cut" if run "flat" for any considerable distance, and that many makers, including ourselves, have always produced Tires that would not otherwise "Rim-Cut"

We believe that many more Tires "Break-at-the-Bead" than Cut at the Rim.

o o

WE believe that the Rubber Riveting System of attaching the Tread to the Carcass (by means of a loosely woven fabric, which permits the raw Rubber to percolate through its meshes and then Vulcanize to Carcass and Tread) prevents, to a large extent, Tread-Separation.

We have long used this in "Goodrich" Tires, as a commonplace part of our Precision policy, but without laying any particular stress upon it.

We believe that the "Double-Cure" process, common with a great many Tire Manufacturers under different names, adds unnecessary expense to Tire Cost, which expense the Methods of the Goodrich Factory eliminate through its Precision "Single-Cure."

We believe that the cutting out of needless expenses like this (which our Precision Methods save) constitutes one of the strongest reasons why the largest Rubber Factory in the World (Ours) produces the greatest Mileage—per Dollar of Cost—in its Tires.

And—

—"The PROOF of the Tire is in the Mileage thereof."

WE believe that the House which sticks to the Truth in its Advertising, is reasonably sure to stick to the Facts in its Selling.

You have never yet found anything in Goodrich Advertising which was not in the Goods it advertised.

Hence you may pin your faith to the following statement:

—Goodrich Safety - Tread Tires give, with most UNIFORMITY, the greatest MILEAGE, and Resilience, at the fairest Cost, per MILE, to Tire Users.

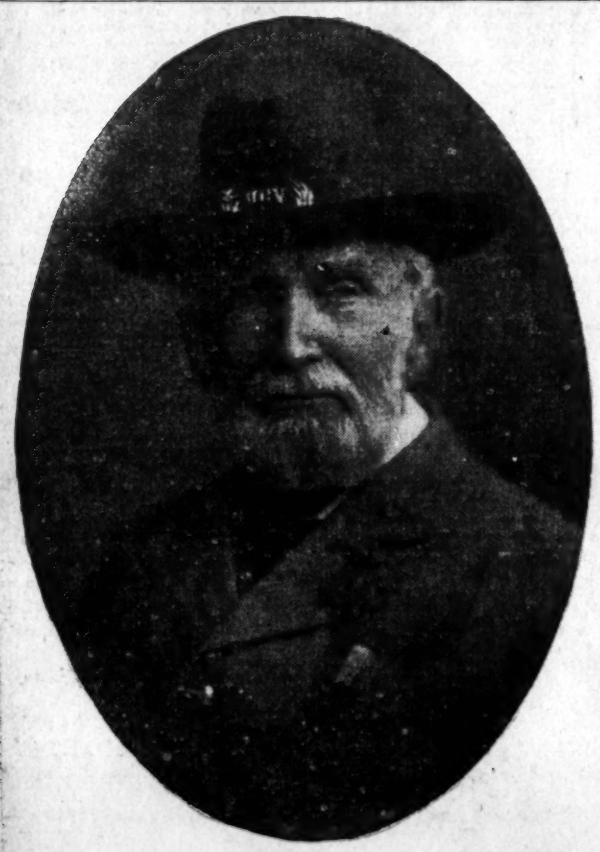
MAJOR ORREN RANDOLPH SMITH, WHO ORIGINATED THE "STARS AND BARS"



The following interesting story of the "Origin of the 'Stars and Bars'," is from the Fayetteville Observer of several weeks ago. Interest in it is augmented by the fact that the United Confederate Veterans, in their recent Reunion at Richmond, received and adopted the report of the committee of that organization, which, after exhaustive and thorough investigation of the claims of all parties concerned and of all the evidence available, decided that Major Orren Randolph Smith, of North Carolina, was really the originator of the design adopted by the Confederate States of America for its flag, known as the "Stars and Bars". The Observer's article follows:

We believe it has been pretty well established that the Stars and Bars, the Confederate flag, was designed by Major Orren R. Smith, veteran of three wars—in Mexico, in Utah and the War between the States. For this patriotic work a gold medal was awarded to Major Smith by the North Carolina Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The award was made a ceremony of the Lee-Jackson Day celebration in Henderson, Mr. Smith's home at that time, though it was at Louisburg the first flag was unfurler. The medal was presented first to the Orren Randolph Smith Chapter, Children of the Confederacy (an enthusiastic body of 56 children named in his honor), who carried it to Major Smith, who has grown very infirm and was unable to attend the public meeting. The children recently served a lunch to the Henry L. Wyatt Camp, and with their leader, Mrs. Maurice J. O'Neil, are proving a most useful auxiliary to the Vance County Chapter. The presentation speech was made by Hon. W. H. Ruffin.

Major Smith very interestiniy tells the story of the designing of the Stars and Bars as follows:

"The idea of my flag I took from the Trinity, 'Three in One.' The three bars were for the Church, State and Press. Red represented State, legislative, judiciary and executive; white for Church, Father, Son and Holy Ghost; red for press, freedom of speech, freedom of conscience and liberty of press—all bound together by a field of blue (The heavens over all), bearing a Star for each State in the Confederation. The seven white stars, all the same size, were placed in a circle, showing that each State had equal rights and privileges irrespective of size or population. The circle, having neither head nor foot, stood for eternity, and signified 'You defend me and I'll protect you.' I had the flag all complete in my mind before the Confederate Congress advertised for models, and when the advertisement appeared I went to my friend, Miss Rebecca Murphy (she is now Mrs. Winborne, of Wilson, N. C.) and asked if she would make me a little flag, I'd tell her how. I tore the 'Bars and cut the Stars' and she sewed the stitches, and when finished the little flag was sent to Montgomery, with the suggestion that a star be added for each State that joined the Confederacy. The flag committee, as you all know, accepted the flag and named it 'The Stars and Bars'. They also adopted the suggestion, and it was not long before the flag bore eleven stars for the eleven Confederate States that voted for Jefferson Davis to be President. After the small flag was sent to Montgomery I bought dress goods from Barrow's store and asked Miss Rebecca to make me a large flag, 9x12 feet, for whether the flag committee accepted my model or not I was determined that one of my flags should be floating in the breeze. Splicing two tall saplings together, I made a pole one hundred feet high and planted it on the court house square at Louisburg, N. C. (where I was then living), and the flag was sent aloft on Monday, March 18, 1861, two months before North Carolina seceded. Over the flag was floating a long blue streamer, like an admiral has on his ship when 'homeward bound', and on this pennant I had stars for each State that had seceded and one for North Carolina, for though my State was still in the Union I knew she was 'homeward bound.' This was the first Confederate flag ever raised in the Old North State, and this is how the 'Stars and Bars' came into existence, 'Dixie's Flag' that floated over the bravest and hardest to wear out soldiers ever encountered in any war."

Miss Murphy, who made the two flags, married first Dr. Germain Watson, and second W. B. Winborne. Her sister, Miss Sally Ann, refused to sew on the flag, saying she was "for the Union" and meant to marry a Yankee officer, and she did marry James A. Miller, lieutenant U. S. A. But while Mr. Smith and Miss Rebecca made the flags, Miss Sallie Ann played on the piano and sang Southern songs. In 1904 Mrs. Winborne was living at Pine Tops, N. C., and she appeared before W. L. Dunn, a justice of the peace (he was also postmaster), and made affidavit to the making of the Confederate model and the large flag that was displayed in Louisburg.

"Fighting Trim"

In a pamphlet entitled "Fighting Trim," issued by the United States Public Health Service, Surgeon J. M. Eager lays stress upon personal endeavor of every individual as of the highest public importance in the organized war against disease. The wonderful victories that have been won in combating infectious maladies have had a tendency to divert popular attention from the equally important personal fortification against diseases of all kinds. The question of preparedness against onslaughts of the enemy, a query prominent in the minds of everyone in these days of warfare, is put in a special personal bearing as relating to the dangers threatened by disease, the permanent enemy of mankind. Are you personally prepared, it is asked, for the hand-to-hand encounter with disease that you are sure to be forced into sooner or later or in which perhaps you are already engaged? Unless you are willing to succumb without a struggle, fight you must, no matter how feeble your fighting proclivities are. The inevitability of the battle against disease is strongly insisted upon. Peace between nations, it is stated, may not be an unattainable hope, but even when the much desired era of human concord comes and armed strife among men has ceased, there will still be an everlasting battle to fight, a ceaseless struggle for a few more years of health and life, a desperate conflict against a foe who, as far as victory over the individual fighter is concerned, is certain in the end to win—the battle against disease.

In the defense against disease two things are necessary—a systematic union of fighters, the sanitary organization, and personal preparedness, the product of intelligent and diligent personal hygiene. Personal preparedness is the patriotic duty of every citizen as an aid to national sanitary defense. No man as a member of society is morally free to live unhygienically or to acquire disease through lack of personal care. Like a slovenly soldier, the person who neglects his health risks imparting to others his loose morale, or even transmitting disease to the whole community.

"Health is a man's most valuable possession. Without it he cannot hold or enjoy anything else that falls to his lot or that he wins in the battle of life. Without health he is a burden to himself and, unless he possess marked compensatory qualities, an encumbrance to his comrades. Though as victims of life's ill chance, they are entitled to the most sympathetic consideration, it is a sad fact that the sick cannot but be considered as impediments in the conflict of existence. Their place is in the rear. Often, indeed, as easy marks for the attacks of disease, they become targets drawing the fire of the enemy. Wealth, position, friendship, ability to help others are largely discounted by physical infirmity."

The health making attitude of mind is represented as a profitable talent and fortunately one that can be acquired. Dr. Eager calls attention to the large available mass of literature on health subjects—work, exercises, relaxation, sleep, fresh air, proper temperatures, food, cooking, cleanliness, etc., that should be judiciously selected and studied. Every person must learn for himself what peril threatens in his special place in life.

Studies of health subjects in schools and clubs, its exposition in public lectures, newspaper articles, and bulletins, have the salutary tendency, it is stated, to promote wholesome practices as an habitual exercise and develop the precious quality of automatically choosing in every action and habit of life those courses that conduce to bodily soundness.

SHIPS SAFE FROM SEA AND AIRSHIP RAIDS

Commission's Flags Are Protection in Voyages Through the War Zone.

When the "African Monarch," chartered to the Commission for Relief in Belgium, sailed from the Erie Elevators in Jersey City, May 22, with a cargo of 6,600 tons of wheat, bound for Rotterdam, she carried all the latest appliances for safety to protect the commission's ships from any possibilities of attack on the ocean and in the zones of war.

The newest of these devices is a very special insignia agreed upon after careful study within the last few days, and used for the first time on the "African Monarch." These insignia are especially distinguishable from the air and under the sea.

In addition to this device the "African Monarch" will carry horizontal banners stretched above the decks. There are two of these banners, each 50 feet in length by 12 feet wide, and each will contain on its surface the letters "B. R." in letters 10 feet long by 8 feet wide. The horizontal banners were lately indicated to the commission for the protection of its ships from possibility of air raids.

The ship will be provided also wth the regular flag of the commission, at the mainmast, which is 12 feet by 15 feet, and bears the name of "The Commission for Relief in Belgium" in red letters on white background, and a huge pennant, which flies from the forward mast, bearing the same inscription.

The regular banners on the side of the ship, with six-foot letters reading "Commission Belgium Relief, Rotterdam," are also used, as a matter of course. At night the commission's flag and pennant are illuminated by Prest-O-Lites on the deck.

Capt. Frank Ramsay is in command of the "African Monarch," which is making her first voyage under charter to the commission, and it is also Capt. Ramsay's first voyage as master. The captain is a determined looking Scotchman, and hails from Hamilton, a pretty village that lies twelve miles west of Glasgow. He is very proud of his ship, which is a staunchly built vessel of the Monarch Line, and laughlingly said, as he gave the order for the raising of the ship's anchor: "I think that we are going to have a very safe voyage. Everything certainly points that way, and we surely are in no danger of any submarine attacks."

RUSSIANS CHARGED WITH "ATROCITIES"

German Government Issues "Memorial Record."

AFFIDAVITS ARE GIVEN

"Atrocities Committed by Russian Troops on German Civilians and German Prisoners of War" Are Described.

Washington, June 5.—The German ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, has given out for publication the "memorial record" and accompanying affidavits, issued by the German government as a White Book of March 25 last, relating to "atrocities committed by Russian troops on German civilians and German prisoners of war." The ambassador also announced that copies of the document had been delivered to all the neutral governments, including the government of the United States, and that other copies would be open to inspection at the German consulates of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and San Francisco.

The "memorial record" summarizes the acts set forth in the eight affidavits attached as exhibits, each accusation being accompanied by a reference to the numbered affidavit giving details of the charge. The "memorial record" says:

"The Russian troops have committed atrocities during the present war, which are incompatible with the laws of humanity and the customs of civilized nations, and which evidence the utter barbarism of their warfare. These atrocities were directed against the peaceful inhabitants of the occupied German territory, as well as against those German soldiers, who opposed them in lawful combat and who had the misfortune of being taken prisoner by them.

"The adjoining documentary material shows that there are not isolated cases of cruelty and deeds of violence, for atrocities of the most bestial sort have been committed in so many places and by so many different divisions of troops that undoubtedly a very great part of the Russian arm is permeated by a spirit of inhuman savagery. A large number of cases is already well known, but in the supplements only such cases will be found as have been incontrovertibly established by official testimony, particularly testimony on oath, or by official report. These cases must however be regarded as being only a selection of the innumerable atrocities actually committed.

"The whole world knows that, owing to the barbaric methods of warfare employed by the Russians, East Prussia, once a flourishing country, in parts now presents a picture of hopeless devastation, and that the peaceful inhabitants were forced to flee and leave all their belongings in order to save themselves from assault and murder. It has been officially ascertained that at the time of the first as well as of the second invasion of East Prussia by the Russians, thousands of men, women and children were carried off, thousands were murdered, about 20,000 buildings were demolished or burned down, and that during the second invasion alone, about 50,000 homes were plundered and destroyed. The last Russian expedition against Memel likewise was nothing more than a savage raid, accompanied by atrocities of every description. The depositions contained in the supplements give an eloquent but ghastly proof of the acts of violence and cruelty, which individual inhabitants suffered at the hands of the Russians.

"The moveable goods of the poor as well as of the wealthy were stolen, looted, or wantonly destroyed by the Russian troops in every conceivable way. Cattle and provisions were taken without payment or promissory certificates. Men and women had to give the covetous soldiers their last coppers. The dwellings were searched often by one division of troops after the other, each soldier taking whatever took his fancy. Finally, homes, farm buildings and provisions were, without reason or purpose, destroyed by fire. The population, including women and children, were ill-treated on empty pretexts or without any reason whatsoever, although they did everything to satisfy the desires of the Russian soldiers as to lodging and food. This ill-treatment was partially characterized by exquisite cruelty; for instance the male population of an entire community, the judge not excepted, were beaten with whips and threatened with death. Fugitives were shot down without further ado.

"Above all, however, numerous citizens were murdered, without any cause, often under terrible tortures or in presence of their relatives. Young men were shot, not because they had committed something, but because they were liable to military service. A transport of fugitives was suddenly attacked; the men wre separated from the women and killed without procedure of any kind. A chief forester, escorting a troop of German convicts, was taken prisoner by Russian troops, brought before General Rennenkampf and—probably in accordance with that general's infamous order to kill all German foresters, deliberately shot. The brutal lust of the Russian soldiers for murder, did not stop even at old men, women and children. The murder of a little girl, about 2 or 3 years old, is a particularly horrible instance. Revolting also is the case of an entire family ,which fell victim to the lust of murder of Russian soldiers. The man was spiked to the table, the child to the door, the breasts of the wife were cut off and her body eviscerated. In another instance a man and his wife were nailed by the tongue to a table, in which position they perished of hunger and loss of blood.

"Innumerable are the cases of bestial attacks upon women and girls. Very often these pitiable victims were violated by several soldiers in succession, who in cases infected them with venereal diseases, women in advanced stages of pregnancy were also abused by the bestial soldiers, even women over 70 years of age were not spared. A little girl, 8 years old, was violated by two Russian soldiers in succession. Officers also gave themselves up to such misdeeds.

"Other supplements disclose the atrocities perpetrated on German prisoners of war by Russian troops. Frequently those German soldiers taken prisoner were robbed, spat upon or otherwise mistreated. A Russian officer threatened German soldiers, who refused to betray their comrades, with death and actually ordered one of them shot. Russian troops placed German prisoners in narrow pits before their artillery positions with the evident intention of allowing them to be killed by German fire. Cossacks in riding past German prisoners of war, cut off their heads, or wounded them, or—by chopping off their limbs—mutilated them. A German prisoner was cruelly bound to a sort of treadmill and left to starve. Three hussars were found hanged in a barn with their heads down and their noses and ears chopped off, so that they must have died in a frightful agony.

"Neither did the Russian hordes hesitate at the mutilation and murder of wounded soldiers. Thus they tore the bandages off the wounded so that they would bleed to death; pierced out their eyes, cut off their tongues, ears, fingers, and feet of others, or smashed in their skulls. In many instances the atrocities took on the very character of fiendish torture. Thus a prisoner, slightly wounded, who was pinned to the wooden floor of a veranda by a sword, which went through his mouth, had the flesh stripped off his entire forearms from the elbows down, while his fingers were cloven to the wrists; another, who had a fracture of the skull, was bound to a calf in a stable in such a way that the animal would touch the uncovered brain with its mouth at every least movement.

"The most terrible thing of all, though, is an order from the Russian General Staff, found on a Russian officer of high rank, which commanded that all the male inhabitants able to work from boys of ten years upward, to be driven before the storming columns; this atrocious order, whereby the Russian commander-in-chief has placed his name on the pillory for all time, was evidently made with the intention that the German soldiers, in order to meet the attack of the Russians, should have to shoot down their own compatriots.

"The imperial German government believes it should stigmatize before all the world this barbarous behavior of the Russian troops, defying as it does every law of warfare and humanity, and it hereby most vigorously and solemnly issues protest against these atrocieies, which are indeed the disgrace of the 20th century."

HOW THIS WAR NEWS IS RECEIVED IN FRENCH AFRICA

Interesting Account Sent by British Explorer from Bangui.

A British explorer, in Bangui, French Africa, sends an account of the manner in which the latest news from the European war theatres reaches him in the heart of the dark continent.

"Although we are six thousand miles away, we receive daily reports of the progress of the battles in Europe, and can follow the progress of events through the French, English, Russian and German official communiques. For the small sum of a dollar a month the wireless telegrams of the Havas agency are distributed to subscribers half an hour after their reception. Of course those of us who live in the interior have to send messengers to Banqui to fetch our copies.

"There are two telegraphic routes, one via North Africa and the other via Dakar, on the west coast; so that, even when the elephants and giraffes carry off the wires around their necks or upset the iron standards by rubbing themselves against them, or when a tornado delays the wireless, we still receive war news by the alternate route. Of course it sometimes happens that nature and creation combine to disconnect temporarily both routes. But we have an army of intelligent natives, and of European telegraphic engineers, all along the route of the wires, who work night and day, defending and repairing them.

"Central Africa has now lost much of its former charm. The solitude of the impenetrable forsts is desecrated by the telegraph messenger, who follows one even to the secret habitat of the leopard and the lair of the lion. It would not surprise me greatly if, while in the act of shooting an elephant, I should hear a voice from the clouds calling out 'Latest War News from the Front. Special Edition.'"

GERMANY OPENS SCHOOL FOR WOUNDED SOLDIERS

Whose Injuries Necessitate a Change of Trade.

First One in Duesseldorf, Has Large Attendance—Hundreds of Soldiers Take Place of Hundreds of Boys and Girls.

Duesseldorf, June 3—The first school in Germany for wounded soldiers who must, because of the nature of their injuries, change their trade or occupation, has been opened in Duesseldorf, with a large attendance.

In the class rooms of a big industrial school formerly occupied by boys and girls there now sit hundreds of soldiers, painstakingly learning to write with their left hand because their right has been shot off, or mastering the intricacies of bookkeeping or some similar occupation at which they may hereafter earn their living.

The project is that of the city of Duesseldorf, and has the backing of practically every business man in the city. The co-operation of the latter is of vital importance because places must be found for the soldiers as soon as they have become proficient in their new work.

The work has three distinct phases, aimed to help three separate classes of wounded. In the first division come those who if possible are to return to the field, but need engrossing occupation during the term of their convalescence. For them a course of study ranging from four to six weeks has been instituted.

Into a second division fall those who are wounded in such a way that they cannot go back to the identical work which they did in peace times, but who if possible are to learn some other branch of their own trade. Thus for instance a former mechanic accustomed to a given type of work can be taught the office routine of his trade and can be fitted to step into the counting room.

Into the third class of soldiers fall those who must change absolutely their trade and kind of work. Their course takes the longest, and includes a period in which both the men and their instructors study the situation to see what specialty the men are best fitted for. Their education includes a careful theoretical basis on which is imposed a practical superstructure.

The huge school building in the Faerberstrasse contains a number of classes in bookkeeping and general office routine—attended chiefly by soldiers who have been wounded in the feet or lower limbs and cannot move about readily but who otherwise are sound. There is a machine shop at which a variety of trades can be taught to men who are capable of working at a machine with their hands but cannot use their legs to any great extent. A mechanical drawing department, a printing shop, a course in architecture for former members of the building trades who now must learn the theoretical side of their trades, an electrical laboratory, and courses in languages for men who have ambition to become salesmen after the war have also been provided.

Twice a week a prominent Duesseldorf economist delivers lectures on industrial and economic subjects to students who somewhat laboriously but very intently follow him and compete with each other much as grammar school children might in answering the somewhat simple and obvious questions which he interjects in his address.

Not the least important side of the big school is its employment bureau, which works in conjunction with the big manufacturing plants of the city. Scores of soldiers unfit for further service in the field have already been placed in both new and old occupations about Duesseldorf.

The length of the courses varies, but on the whole is shorter than might be anticipated. Over 400 men were equipped, between February 1 and Easter, for various branches of the metal trade, and now are in special courses which they will soon complete.

"They say every big family has a black sheep. Well that's the way of the world. Even among Diamond Tires there's about one out of every hundred that isn't just what it ought to be."

—Mister Squeegee

We don't judge families by their black sheep.

We judge the black sheep by their families. And the better the family the blacker the sheep. So when a Diamond Tire gets into trouble we think more strongly about it because it comes from such a good family.

But isn't it a wonderful record—about one Diamond Tire in every hundred a black sheep—

Oh, not really deep-dyed black—let's say it's sort of a dark gray sheep actually.

The difficulty is that Diamond Tires can only be compared with Diamond Tires. There's no other standard of comparison.

Send for our book of letters from dealers who sold Diamond Tires in 1914.

It tells how more than 99 out of every 100 of the more than half million Diamond Tires sold last year gave maximum service at minimum mileage cost. It is yours for the asking.

AMERICANS AT LARGE DECRY DEMAND FOR WAR

Average Citizen Wants Country Kept Out of Brawl.

New Yorkers Pay Twelve Million Dollars Taxes in One Day—Old Assay Office a Genuine Gold Mine. Tooth Brush Drill.

New York, June 5. — The effect of the latest exchange of views between Washington and Berlin upon the relations of the United States and Germany has continued to monopolize attention and discussion this week. While there is practical unanimity that the President must be upheld the time that has elapsed since the sinking of the Lusitania has brought out one fact with impressive force. This is that the man in the street does not want to see the United States involved in war with any of the European belligerents. To those who can remember the events of 1898, the present contrast with the overwhelming popular demand for the punishment of Spain which then existed is most impressive.

To learn the average American's view of the situation, I spent two days this week getting the opinions of all sorts and conditions of representative Americans on this subject. These are not people who are quoted in news papers, but those who really make up the sound public opinion. To get an average point of view, I have talked with hundreds of men in all ranks of life, from laborers to the heads of some of the greatest corporations in the country. The surprising thing about these interviews was the similarity of the views expressed. Aside from the futility of a war between the United States and Germany, at this time, which nearly all of those questioned referred to, the common expression was one of pride that the United States alone, among the world's great powers, has kept out of the war, and a belief that a better way can be found of adjusting the present difficulty than to plunge into the maelstrom. Criticism of Germany's first note is general, but the average man holds that there are two sides to every question, and that calm consideration of this fact should lead to a friendly understanding. The clamor of pro-Germans and pro-Allies does not shake him in his desire that America should use every effort to remain on terms of friendship with all the countries now at war.

Paying Taxes Some.

To avoid the payment of interest, taxpayers of New York heaped nearly $12,000,000 into the city treasury one day this week. Of this amount the largest single payment was made by the New York Central Railroad Company, which sent a check to the office of the receiver of taxes for $1,804,100.87. The next largest amount came from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which paid $869,644.81. These payments, however, covered only the taxes paid by these companies on property owned by them in the Borough of Manhattan.

Throughout the day hundreds of persons stood in line and the recording of their payments required the services of a large corps of extra clerks. It was the last day on which tax payment might be made without interest charges being made by the city. When the business day ended it was estimated that payments in the Borough of Manhattan amounted to between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. At the same time it was estimated that taxpayers in the Borough of Brooklyn paid more than $1,000,000, and nearly $1,000,000 more was paid by property owners in the Bronx, Richmond and Queens boroughs.

Gold Mining in Mid-Air.

Gold mining in mid-air was the unusual spectacle to which Wall Street was treated during the past week. Suspended at the end of a rope in a boatswain's chair from the roof of an adjoining skyscraper, a workman was kept busily engaged for hours scraping buckets of gold laden soot from the flues of the old United States Assay office, which is now being razed. With true Wall Street instinct, the large crowd which had been attracted by the sight of the man at work in the air, immediately sensed the meaning of his labors. As the buckets were lowered to the ground they peered eagerly into them to catch a glimpse of the glittering refuse. The assay office, which was built in 1823, is being torn down to permit the erection of a new and larger building. Its principal work was the testing of gold and the reducing of old coins and jewelry into bullion. In order to extract the last speck of gold which the building might contain before turning it over to the contractors, government officials had the floors of the refinery and other rooms torn up and burned. The ashes were then subjected to treatment in order to extract whatever gold was in them. It is claimed that in the floors of the refinery alone $1,500 was recovered. In spite of these official precautions it is said that the demolition of the building has proved a little gold mine to the contractors, who have found gold dust in all sorts of unsuspected places.

Tooth Brush Drill.

The success of the Department of Education's campaign for a dental hygiene week was proven a few days ago when 700,000 school boys and girls in the city schools appeared in their classes with individual tooth brushes. In an effort to secure the individual tooth brush for each boy and girl, teachers in all of the schools have suggested to their pupils that they forego candy and ice cream sodas and save the money to buy tooth brushes. Many department and drug stores throughout the city took notice of the campaign by holding special sales where a regular tooth brush costing 15 cents was sold for 5 cents, and higher priced brushes proportionately. In all the public schools there was a careful inspection of both brushes and teeth. When the inspecting teacher found a boy or girl whose teeth needed dental attention, the child was sent to the nearest clinic or dentist. As a result of the campaign, several school principals are considering the advisability of insisting that the teeth of all graduating pupils must be in good condition before they receive their diplomas. In many of the schools the boys and girls in all the classes have voluntarily written compositions on the care of the teeth. One six-year-old boy submitted the following: "Every morning I brush my teeth. If they are not clean I will have the toothache. At night I brush them before I go to bed." Which goes to show that this youngster has grasped the correct idea of caring for his teeth.

American Dollar Famous.

The day is coming soon when United States dollars will be accepted at face value in any of the Americas, and eventually in any country, according to statements made here by leading exchange bankers. Already American institutions are issuing dollar letters of credit good throughout the Western Hemisphere with the intention of making them available anywhere on the globe as soon as the European war is over. It is pointed out that when this is accomplished the dollar will have arrived at its own and Americans will not have to put pounds in their pockets when they set out from their native lands. The bankers say that not only will it facilitate traveling to be able to spend dollars in foreign lands, but that there can be no better trade introduction to our foreign friends than the American dollar. The new movement began only a few months ago with dollar exchange. Shortly afterward dollar acceptances were instituted. Now come dollar letters of credit. Decidedly it is the day of the dollar. It never lacked popularity at home, and the more it travels the more friends it will make both for itself and for its native land. —LONGACRE.

OPEN HIGH SCHOOL BIDS 15TH

Plans and Specifications for Handsome New Structure Now Being Furnished Contractors.

Plans and specifications for the new High School building have been completed by the architect, Mr. H. E. Bonitz, and copies are now being furnished contractors. The Board of Education will receive bids for the construction of the High School to Tuesday, June 15, when the proposals will be opened at 11 a. m.

The new High School building is to be located on Market, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, and according to the preliminary sketches by Mr. Bonitz, it will be one of the handsomest of the many modern and beautiful school buildings of the city. It is planned to have a structure completed and ready for occupancy by the opening of the next school term in September, when the present High School building will be turned over to the Union school and will hereafter be known as the Union school.

The recent extension of the city limits makes the location for the new High School building one that is central to all parts of the city, and it is also more convenient to pupils attending from the rural sections than would be a building located further toward the downtown section.

PANORAMIC VIEW OF A BIG BATTLE FIELD

Had by Passengers Through Suez Canal on Steamers.

Letter From a Passenger Aboard a Steamer from England to India Sees Attack by Turkish Troops—Description.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)

Cairo, April 30.—There were two steamers bound from England to India which passed through the Suez Canal while the attack by the Turkish troops was actually in progress. One of these carried a considerable number of passengers who were privileged to get a more complete panoramic view of a big battle field than has probably been the good fortune of non-military observers in any other field of action. They not only saw fragments of the repulsed Turks at Kintara, but also the advance of British troops into the desert in their wide flanking movement further down the canal.

A letter from one of these passengers says in part:

"A few minutes after we left Port Said a notice was sent around that passengers were to keep to the port decks, as Turkish snipers were at work on the north side of the canal.

"For the first ten miles all the low-lying land had been flooded, but from there onward we commenced to see troops entrenched. Every tenth mile was a camp, and about every hundred yards between were small trenches containing about a dozen Indians. Further up the troops were most New Zealanders and Australians.

"About the 30th mile we passed the Indian marine cruiser Hardinge, and here was our first evidence of there having been a fight, for her funnel was gone all the way down one side, and the other side was riddled with bullets and her bridge gone. Of course, ships in the canal pass within a few feet of each other, so we could see everything. Her captain and pilot, who were on the bridge at the time, were killed, and about 16 others were wounded.

"From this time on we passed several warships, and troops were on both sides of the canal. We amused ourselves by throwing tins of cigarettes out to them. We cleared all the cigarettes from the bar.

"All this time we were going at eight miles an hour, which is three miles more than the speed limit, so it was evident that they wanted to get us through the canal as quickly as possible.

"At the 40th mile the men in the trenches told us that they had been engaged with the enemy on the previous day, and that the Turks were now about eight miles off. I went up on the deck and saw troops in the distance, but could not say whether they were Turks of not. From the 42nd mile the banks of the canal are high and I could not see any great distance, except between occasional gaps.

"But at the 46th mile I saw a dead horse, half on the bank and half in the water, and a little farther a dead camel. Then the excitement began. First one dead Turk was seen, then two, then a batch of seven or eight, and at the 47th mile, a crowd of them, with a number of broken small boats, full of dead, simply smashed to pieces, some hanging over the side with leg gone, others without an arm, and some you could not recognize as men at all. Just here the banks are quite high, but they slope down to the water, and on these slopes were dead Turks in all sorts of positions. Some had fallen with their heads and shoulders just in the water. I climbed up in the rigging to see what was over the top of the bank, and there I saw almost hundreds.

"It appeared that the Turks were seen coming, and the warships in the canal allowed them to throw a pontoon across. When they were all gathered at this spot the warships let fly. They had to retire after losing several of their guns. This place was Kntara, a few miles from the Bitter Lakes. The battle occurred on the previous day.

"On arrival at the lakes we anchored for the night with all lights out and among about 30 other ships.

"Fighting was going on all night a little further up the canal, and we thought we should be held up in the lakes, but we started off the next morning, with our bridge and deck protected by sand bags.

"From here to Suez we passed camp after camp of soldiers. Most of them had been in action. The Turks were about eight miles away.

"A little further on we heard the guns and saw the British troops moving off to the attack. The battle was quite a distance inland. I could see the smoke from the guns through my glasses. There were some low sandhills about five miles away, and I could see them on this ridge. The British had several thousand men and six guns marching over the flat ground for this ridge.

"I don't suppose many people have had or will have the chance that we had to go straight through the middle of a battlefield, before they have even had a chance to bury the dead. The effect of these naval guns must be awful, and from the curious position of the killed they must have been dead almost before they reached the ground. Occasionally you would notice a man who appeared to have struggled, but most lay evidently where they fell."

The Plainest Girl Can be Good-Looking

There is economy in good looks. It pays every girl to be good-looking and every woman owes it to herself to be as attractive as possible.

It is unfortunate that all women are not born beautiful, but nearly all can acquire good looks. The plain girl not only must use care in the selection of her clothes, but give especial attention to her hair—thin, wispy, dull and faded locks will destroy half the beauty of even a pretty face.

If your hair is not beautiful, lacking that enviable softness, lustre and fluffiness, or is falling out, full of dandruff, too dry, by all means use Parisian Sage, an inexpensive liquid tonic, easily obtained at any drug counter or from R. R. Bellamy. Simply rub Parisian Sage well into the scalp. It will go right to the hair roots, nourish them, and stimulate the hair to grow strong and luxuriant. It removes all dandruff, thoroughly cleanses the hair of dust and excess oil, and makes it appear twice as abundant.

Parisian Sage is a scientific tonic that gives the hair just what is needed to make it fluffy, soft and gloriously radiant; and pretty hair will surely increase the charm and beauty of even the plainest girl.

Will Discuss European War.

MARS ON THE WATER WAGON

Soldiers Discuss the Efficacy Of Total Abstinence For Promoting Higher Efficiency In European Armies

CZAR OF RUSSIA

EMPEROR OF GERMANY

HON. LLOYD GEORGE OF ENGLAND

SECRETARY DANIELS OF U.S.

LORD KITCHENER OF ENGLAND

The monarchs of Europe and their armies are climbing on the "water wagon."

Since King George of England, Lord Kitchener and David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared themselves in favor of total abstinence and ordered all alcoholic beverages from their palaces, and Kaiser Wilhelm, according to Berlin dispatches, gave up all alcoholic drinks and now quenches his thirst with lemonade, and at the start of the great conflict the Czar of Russia put a ban on vodka for his troops and the French government declared against absinthe and put an obsolute prohibition on its sale in the republic. What effect will it have upon universal prohibition? As an aftermath a general order was issued through Egypt recently against troops drinking absinthe and as an echo from another hemisphere comes the report that General Villa, military dictator of Mexico, has declared he and his army is being in the future, steady riders on the "water wagon."

From Berlin comes the dispatch: "The Kaiser has been converted to teetotalism after experimenting upon himself as to the effect of abstinence from all liquors on his capacity for work. He is said to have decided to drink no more and take lemonade as a substitute beverage.

The Kaiser previously had carefully studied statistics on alcoholism in its relation to suicide, crime and accidents. When swearing in troops at Wilhelmshaven the Kaiser delivered a lecture on temperance and drank a toast in water. In 1913 he told students at a military school: "I expect you to reduce your consumption of alcohol to a marked degree."

DRINK IN THE TRENCHES.

Reports are that soldiers in the trenches are still being served wines and beer by both the French and German commissaries and a recent dispatch told of a great debauch of a German regiment that captured a French village and looted its storerooms where champagne and other wines were stored. Dispatches telling of the menu of German and French soldiers in the trenches mentioned an alloted amount of wine or beer to each man each day.

At the outset of the war the Russian government placed its ban on vodka. It was maintained that this rather strong and intoxicating drink had a demoralizing effect on the army. At about the same time France declared against absinthe and prohibited its sale throughout the Republic.

More recently the matter of total abstinence has become a great issue in England. Chancellor Lloyd-George declared in an address that the worst foe the country had to contend with was not the Germans, but alcohol. King George then declared a ban on intoxicants in his home and Lord Kitchener followed suit. Their example has been followed generally.

The general complaint in England was not that alcohol affected the men in the trenches, but that those left at home to follow the commercial pursuits were indulging to such an extent that they were incapable of performing their duties.

This indirectly affected the troops in that the men left at home were those charged with the shipment of ammunition and supplies. But few skilled hands have been left at home and they, while intoxicated and unable to perform their duties, have delayed shipments of necessities to the army on the continent. These charges were made in Chancellor Lloyd-George's speech in Parliament and immediately the question was taken up throughout the British Empire in a spirited manner. While England always had its public houses and its great supplies of beer and whisky and each man considered himself independent in either taking or letting it alone, when it became a national issue in which the Chancellor declared the success of the war in a great measure depended, a great majority decided against alcohol.

The press and public favored drastic measures—in fact, total prohibition. The government has reached no decision in the matter, the question of total prohibition being one on which Parliament must vote. It is pointed out that to prohibit the sale of liquor only in the localities where men are engaged in the manufacture of munitions of war would cause a great outcry and that aside from total prohibition, apparently the only way of dealing with the subject is a further curtailment of the hours of sale. Some favor prohibiting the sale of spirits, but allowing beer and wine. It is understood that the leaders in the agitation will be satisfied with nothing less than total prohibition.

At a meeting of liquor dealers it was decided to ask Chancellor Lloyd-George to reduce the hours of the sale of liquor. Labor leaders also were asked to aid in this matter.

BECOMING TOTAL ABSTAINER.

Chancellor Lloyd-George's demand for some check on the liquor evil was so strong that King George volunteered to become an abstainer himself and to see that no alcoholic beverages were dispensed in the palace. He sent the following letter to Lloyd-George:

"Dear Chancellor of the Exchequer: The king thanks you for the prompt report of the meeting of employers. His majesty has read it with intense interest and also with the deepest concern. He feels that nothing but the most vigorous measures will successfully cope with the grave situation existing in our armament factories.

"We have before us the statement not merely of the employers, but of the Admirality and the War Office, which are responsible for the munitions of war and for the transport of troops, food and ammunition. From this evidence it is without doubt largely due to drink that we are unable to obtain the output of war material indispensable to meet the requirements of the army in the field, and that there has been such a serious delay in consequence of the necessary re-enforcement of supplies to aid our gallant troops at the front.

"A continuance of such a state of things must inevitably result in the prolongation of the horrors and burdens of this terrible war. I am instructed to add that if it be deemed advisable the King will be prepared to set an example by giving up all alcoholic liquor himself and by issuing orders against its consumption in the royal households so that no difference shall be made, so far as his majesty is concerned between the treatment of the rich and the poor in this question.

"LORD STAMFORDHAM

"The King's Private Secretary."

Earl Kitchener, secretary of state for war, was the next to step in line and order liquor banished from his household.

LABOR PROBLEM INVOLVED.

The drink question and the labor problem have become so closely related since the war began that both are now considered as one. According to statistics compiled for the cabinet, workmen lost on an average of three days a week through drunkenness. This state of affairs naturally cripples industries, especially those that are turning out arms, ammunition and other supplies vitally needed by the army. It has also handicapped work in the ship yards and on the docks, where there is now a tremendous demand for reliable labor to load and unload merchant ships and transports.

Newspapers today devoted almost as much space to the prohibition questions as they did to operations in the war zone. Most of them are in sympathy with the movement, but others ask for modified prohibition so that the public housekeepers will not lose entirely their sole means of livelihood.

The government revenue from drink is about $200,000,000 a year, whereas the war is costing $3,000,000,000 a month. Thus the loss of $200,000,000 against $3,600,000,000 is comparatively small, the prohibitionists argue, especially when one considers the added efficiency of the workmen in the arsenals and other war supply factories. War Secretary Kitchener declares the more guns and ammunition the British and French armies get during the next stage of the war, the quicker the hostilities will come to an end.

Following is a part of the speech of Chancellor Lloyd-George that so stirred the British nation into action against a new foe:

"We are fighting Germany, Austria and drink, and so far as I can see, the greatest of these three deadly foes is drink," said the chancellor.

It was stated that despite the fact that work was being carried on night and day seven days in the week, the total working time on the average in nearly all the British shipyards was actually less than before the war, and the average productiveness had decreased. There were many men doing splendid and strenuous work, probably as good as the men in the trenches, but many did not even approximate full time, thus disastrously reducing the average.

A NEW FOE.

Notwithstanding the curtailment of the hours they are allowed to keep open, the receipts of the public houses in the neighborhood of the shipyards, it was said, had greatly increased, in some cases 40 per cent. The instance of a battleship coming in for immediate repairs was cited. She was delayed a whole day through the absence of riveters, who were drinking and carousing. In one yard the riveters have been working on the average only 40 hours a week, and in another yard only 36 hours.

In conclusion the deputation, which included representatives of the leading shipbuilders of the country, drew attention to the example set by France and Russia and urged upon the chancellor the need of drastic action.

The chancellor, in the course of his reply, said the reason the government had not heretofore taken more drastic action on the liquor question, was because it needed to be assured that it was not going adverse to public sentiment; otherwise more harm than good would be done. The government must feel that it had every class in the community behind it when taking action which interfered severely with individual liberties. But now, he was sure that the country was beginning to realize the gravity of the situation.

"I have a growing conviction based on accumulating evidence," continued the chancellor, "that nothing but root and branch methods will be of the slightest avail in dealing with the evil. I believe it is the general feeling that if we are to settle German militarism, we must first of all settle with drink."

Dispatches from Berlin say that the German Federal Council passed an order strengthening the regulations regarding the sale of intoxicants in Germany. The order permits the central authorities of each state, at their discretion, to limit or prohibit the sale of spirits. Any violation of such prohibition is punishable by a fine of $2,500 or imprisonment for a year.

GERMAN OFFICER'S OPINION.

A German officer is quoted as saying:

"The men in the trenches have very little desire for alcoholic stimulants. While such beverages are enjoyed in times of peace they are but a detriment to men in time of war. My men cannot develop sufficient resistance against cold, fatigue and disease while drinking than while refraining from such indulgence.

"Without drink the men have become hardened and have developed a great power of resistance that nothing but a bullet can break down. When the war started I found that the men who drink were the ones more quickly overtaken by disease. These men were more subject to cold than the others. I believe hospital records will show that these same men died more quickly either of bullet wound or pneumonia than the abstainers."

So it has come about in a few months that something has been accomplished without difficulty that might take years of political fighting to accomplish through the vote of the people. While the privilege of drinking is considered one of personal liberty which each man must decide for himself in time of peace, in the present war when the life of a nation has been threatened by such a socalled menace the question was settled within a few weeks.

Germans are considered a race of beer drinkers while French are supposed to be fond of their wine. Yet in the trenches at present wines and even beer are luxuries, now served only on holidays. In the English army the old custom of serving beer, a certain amount to each soldier each day, has been dispensed with.

The change has not been a victory for prohibitionists nor has it been a severe blow to the "wets." At a time when the great races of the world are in a death struggle it was generally conceded that alcohol had nothing but a bad effect and the evil was quickly eradicated.

We have discovered a way to overcome our awe of the truly great and pompous. We shut our eyes and imagine them as fat, drooling babies, chewing their thumbs.

TOPIC
BODY UNDER; SOUL ON TOP
June 6, 1915.
(I Corinthians 9:24-27.)

(Consecrattion Meeting.)

In this remarkable passage Paul states a great Christian principle, and his own adherence to it. The principle is the subjection of the body, or what athletics today would call "training" for the accomplishments of the desired purpose.

In a race a great many run, but only one can win the prize. All other things being equal, the prize goes to the man who is in best training. Paul's counsel is that we shall so run as to receive the reward. In the Christian race the analogy does not hold. Many receive the crown. But it is an imperative duty that we shall be careful to run the race so that our crown may be assured.

Paul's own adherence to this principle is very strict. He is determined to keep himself in the very best training. He is determined to "keep under" his body and bring its into subjection lest that by any means, when he had preached to others, he might himself be a castaway.

How shall we obey this principle in our lives? How shall we keep our selves in training? We must find out what are the things in our lives that are hindering will be to rub out those things. Whatever hinders our approach to God, whatever interferes with our Christian work, whatever interrupts our spiritual growth, is as such to impede in our Christian race as a sprained ankle or a dislocated knee would spell failure for a runner of a race.

Merely to attempt to keep the body under will never succeed. By the supreme example of will power, a man may control by a large extent his actions, but he will never be able to be complete master of himself by such a process.

Individual life is composed of two forces, body and soul. On the proper relation of these forces depends the working out of our life as planned by our Maker.

Life should be viewed periscopically. That is, from all sides at the same time, so that the path over which the body has travelled may be clearly seen in its entirety and the future course judged by past experience.

The body combines all physical forces and should do the bidding of the soul. So it should represent knowledge and theory and plan the steps.

Man was created in the image of God—not necessarily in the physical image, but resembling his Maker in his ability to foresee the future by the past and in other ways, and so guide his life and control his body in harmony with relative forces.

The body should represent the train, while the soul is the dispatcher, able to see other trains and impediments and safely guide the journey to the end.

The distinction between man and animal life is the soul. A monkey, the size of a man, would contain strength and vigor, compared to which, man is a mere pigmy. But man dominates because the soul is able to foresee the future and make plans which raises him from the brute plane and gives him dominance over the beasts of the field in accordance with the promise of God.

The body should be under the control of the will for the same reason that the ship should be under the control of the captain. The captain by the daily observation of the sun, by the aid of his chronometer and compass is able to plan the cruise and guide the vessel into a safe harbor.

The soul represents theory, knowledge, harmony, the good and the beautiful, while the body represents force, dominance, brutality and selfishness. The combination of these forces with the body under and the soul in control, represents construction with foresight; dominance with love and mercy; harmony and peace to the individual and with all mankind.

The body can be likened to some of the great guns and gunners being used so mercilessly in the great conflict now raging. Formerly, the gunner sighted the enemy, aimed and fired. He represents the past life and is similar to many lives today. The modern gunner is little more than a portion of the gun at which he is stationed. After the location of the enemy is found, engineering and mathematical knowledge is used. The engineer represents the soul. Angles are figured, winds, atmospheric conditions, geological planes are all taken into consideration, done by carefully constructed instruments of precision. When the death dealing missile is finally sent on its way, it is often at an enemy not yet within range of human sight. The gunner often fights the battle without seeing the enemy. The great naval conflict of the Falkland islands was fought and terminated during a storm at sea while the ships were fifteen miles apart. So the soul should make calculations and the body being subservient to its will, be guided and controlled with the divine will of its Maker.

On being asked by her father the minister's text, a little girl replied, "Keep your soul on top." The real text had been, "I keep my body under," but the little girl had the right interpretation. He who keeps his soul on top, but makes his body a strong vigorous instrument of his soul, will observe two conditions of physical well-being, and will have the essence of true manhood, a sound soul in a sound body.

"I will help thee"—Oh, the sweetness,
oh, the sureness of His word!
Hush, O heart, be still and listen, for thy fainting cry is heard.
"I will help thee." With what fleetness comes the answer back to me.
Oh, be swift to claim its surety, for
His promise is to thee!
"I will help thee." Ah, no matter to what depths His help must reach,
Through what lengths, or through what mazes, it must come thy soul to teach
That His promised word once given
shall forever more abide.
Rise, O heart, be swift to greet Him,
for thy Lord is by thy side!

Lesson XI.—Second Quarter, For June 13, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Ps. xxxii—Memory Verse, 5—Golden Text, Ps. xxxii, 1. Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

It is certainly restful and most refreshing to turn from the record of sin, as in the last lesson, to this record of sin forgiven and to hear the Spirit of the Lord through David tell of this great blessedness. Nathan said to David, "The Lord hath put away thy sin; * * * howbeit by this deed thou hast given great occasion to the enemies of the Lord to blaspheme" (II Sam. xii, 13, 14), and they have been blaspheming ever since. There is forgiveness for the sinner, but it is an awful thing to be a stumbling block in the way of others. It is beautiful to read of such a sinner as David as "the anointed of the God of Jacob and the sweet psalmist of Israel." The title, "God of Jacob," is to me a most wonderful name and gives me great encouragement.

As to the psalms of David, see how he gives God all the glory, "The Spirit of the Lord spake by me, and His word was in my tongue" (II Sam. xxiii, 1, 2). There can be no doubt that the Lord wrote through him all the psalms attributed to him and many of the others. Our Lord Jesus spoke of him as writing the One Hundred and Tenth (Matt. xxii, 41-45). The apostles spoke of him as the author of the Sixteenth, the Second and others (Acts ii, 30, 31; iv, 25, 26; xiii, 32-37). Paul refers to our present lesson as coming through David in Rom. iv, 5-8. This is the second psalm beginning with the word "blessed," and it is a plural word meaning literally "Oh, the blessings." Spurgeon says that it means double joys, bundles of happiness, mountains of delight. There can be no real blessedness till we know our sins forgiven, and the gospel that does not proclaim the forgiveness of sins is not the gospel of God, for that gospel says, "Through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins, and by Him all that believe are justified from all things" (Acts xiii, 38, 39; Rom. iii, 24).

In verses 1, 2, 5, there are four different words used concerning our guilt—transgression, sin, iniquity, guile—and Dr. Adam Clarke says that the first means passing a boundary or doing what is forbidden; the second means missing a mark or not doing what is commanded; the third means what is morally wrong, contrary to equity; the fourth signifies fraud or deceit. To remove these evils three acts are mentioned—forgiving, covering, not imputing. All are fully accomplished for us by the one great sacrifice on Calvary, and the benefits become ours when with true pentitence we turn to Him. We may actually have the forgiveness and be without the joy because we do not rest on the assurance of His infallible word, for joy and peace come only by believing (Rom. xv, 13). If we do not acknowledge our sin and seek to cover our iniquity we will be in as bad a case as was David (verses 3-5), but if we confess our sins He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness (I John i, 9). The riches of His grace in this psalm are so exceedingly abundant that the little we can call attention to seems so poor we can only pray that the reader may by the Spirit see the ocean of fullness that is here. Eph. i, 6, 7, are very precious words to me, beginning and ending with grace and including acceptance, redemption and forgiveness. The truly godly can never perish, but they may wander and need restoration (verse 6; ii, 12; John x, 28).

How rich is verse 7, my hiding place, our life hid with Christ in God, in God and in Christ! (Col. iii, 3; I Thess. i, 1; II Cor. xii, 2.) My strong habitation, my dwelling place (Ps. lxxi, 3; xc, 1)—how absolutely safe, preserved from trouble, for, though we must have tribulation, we need not be troubled, and no real evil can befall us (John xvi, 33; xiv, 1). He may let us go to the furnace or the lions' den, but we shall come out without any harm whatever. There will be songs of deliverance, for God is unto us a God of deliverances (Ps. lxviii, 20, R. V.). The word "selah," used only in the Psalms and in Hab. iii, always suggests that we pause and meditate. Its use here in verses 4, 5, 7, is most suggestive. When there is no peace consider why; when forgiven consider how great His grace, and always meditate upon Him as our refuge.

Inasmuch as "it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps" (Jer. x, 23), it becomes us ever to seek from the Lord our God, with all sincerity, the way wherein we may walk and the thing that we may do (Jer. xlii, 3; Ps. cxliii, 8). In verse 8 of our lesson and in Isa. xxx, 21; Ex. xxiii, 20, we have the assurance of sure guidance if only we are meek enough to be guided (Ps. xxv, 9). There are horses which can be guided by the faintest whisper, and there are mules which sometimes seem more intelligent than their drivers, but those referred to in verse 9 are without understanding, and there are many such both among horses, mules and men. All such will find sorrows enough (verse 10), but to the trustful and obedient it will be always mercy, and verse 10, with xxxiii, 1, may be their constant experience. When we consider the Lord and His grace and His glory there is always abundant cause for the upright in heart to be glad and rejoice and shout for joy.

COTTON MARKET VERY QUIET

Prices Ruled Generally Steady and Closed at a Net Advance of From One to Three Points.

New York, June 5.—The cotton market was very quiet today, but prices ruled generally steady and closed at a net advance of 1 to 3 points.

The bureau report showing of the week-end figures which were not published until after the close of business yesterday seemed to inspire some scattering covering with first prices unchanged to two points higher. Liverpool, however, fully met yesterday's local reaction while traders took a favorable view of the weather map and there were reactions of some 4 or 5 points. Later reports of heavy rains in Oklahoma and North Texas reached the ring and prices rallied with the close 2 or 3 points off from the best under renewed profit-taking. The official forecast for generally fair weather in the Eastern belt was considered favorable but the rains reported in the west evidently attracted considerable attention late in the session.

Estimates of the season's probable exports are being increased to slightly over 8,000,000 bales while reports from the dry goods trade indicate that mills are operating fully as well up to their capacity as they were at this time last season.

Cotton futures closed steady.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

Market Under Mild Selling Pressure and Closed at Small Net Loss.

New Orleans, June 5.—Cotton was under mild selling pressure today and closed at a net loss of 1 to 3 points. At the lowest trading months were 4 to 5 points down. Profit-taking by longs and small short selling made up the operings.

The market had no great selling power because of the bullish display made by the weekly statistics issued yesterday.

Selling on the new crop on reports that the belt might have been heavier but for the general rains in Oklahoma, a section of the cotton region where there has been too much rain.

Liverpool oxered little encouragement to either side and this restricted business.

LITTLE TRADE IN STOCKS

Most of Action on Yesterday's Market Was Evening Up Weekly Accounts—Boom Gives Out.

New York, June 5.—Little or nothing remained today of the boom which yesterday sent stocks in general to the highest levels of recent weeks. The effect of the United States Steel decision seemed to have spent its force for a time, steel shares, as well as the others reflecting moderate pressure. The little trading of today's spot session consisted largely of an evening up of weekly accounts. Amalgamated Copper and Anaconda Copper were among the few features of strength the former rising above its high price of the previous day. All the motor issues made considerable gains, presumably as a result of the enormous stock dividend declared by one of the better known companies. In the final dealings, Steel, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and American Can manifested renewed heaviness, closing at lower prices.

Mercantile agencies in their weekly reviews referred to the intrinsic soundness of underlying conditions.

The Norfolk & Western statement showed a net gain of $165,000 for April.

Bonds steady on a nominal demand. Total sales, par value, aggregated $914,000. United States coupon 4s declined 1-2 per cent on call during the week.

WEEKLY DRY GOODS REVIEW

Primary Cotton Goods Markets Were Very Quiet During the Past Week.

New York, June 5.—Primary cotton goods markets were very quiet during the week, but the tone improved on the last days of trading. The goods on contract are being taken steadily and the movement of merchandise on old orders continues large with the mills well employed. Colored goods mills, printers, and dyes are being hampered more and more each week by the scarcity of dyestuffs. Ducks continues in full demand for export. Some duck mills have already begin night operations on heavy wide duck for war purposes. Wash goods in printed designs and white good are in steady demand for quick delivery. The ready-to-wear trade is workin glater than usual on cotton goods. Denims are firm and have been bought liberally by some manufacturers. Tickings are quiet. Brown sheetings and Osnaburgs available for substitutes in place of burlaps are being sold steadily, but general lines of brown sheetings are very quiet. Printcloths are holding barely steady with the demand light. Fine cottons are firm and quiet. Quotations: Printcloths 28-inch 64 by 64s 3 1-4, 64 by 60s 3 1-8, 38 1-2-inch 64 by 60s, 4 1-8, brown sheetings Southern 6 1-2, denims 9 ounce 13 1-4c, tickings 8 ounce 11 1-2, prints 5 1-4, staple ginghams 6 1-4, dress ginghams 9 1-4c.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 5.—After a lingering illness of several months, Capt. D. J. Swindell died yesterday afternoon at his home here, shortly before 3 o'clock. Dr. Foley Tells of His Trip to Europe

KINSTON VETERINARIAN CROSSES ATLANTIC WITH SHIPLOAD OF HORSES FOR USE IN WAR. HIS EXPERIENCES.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., June 5.—The friends here of J. F. Foley, until a few weeks ago was the city veterinarian and a popular local character, are satisfied now. There was much uneasiness following Foley's "disappearance" about a month ago, after he left here announcedly to supervise the health of a cargo of horses for the British army on the way across from Newport News. Not a word came from Foley until yesterday, when the following very interesting letter was received:

"From J. F. Foley, physician to war steeds of H. R. M. George, of the Horse Marines, aboard S. S. Cheniston, 250 miles out from St. Nazaire, France, May 15.

"I am aboard this British ship with 556 horses. We have been making the marvelous rate of 10 knots an hour. We have been tossing around on the high seas for 12 days. I have had bad weather for two days and night. The most important work has been remaining aboard the ship. If you never experienced this sensation you haven't missed anything. Sleep? Well, I guess not. It requires all of one's attention to remain in the bunk.

"The scenes around Newport News make one wonder how the Allies could carry on this war without the aid of the U. S. Thousands of horses arriving and leaving every day. The piers are blocked with lead, motor trucks and all kinds of war munitions. The scene aboard the ship is pathetic. Mostly all the horses are sick. So far we have had to put 12 over into Davy Jones' locker, and probably will have to dump that many more before we reach port. The horses are in very narrow stalls and must stand all the time. All are affected with shipping fever, and this combined with the rough weather makes it unbearable for them. They often drop from exhaustion. But as these horses are insured their welfare is hardly considered by the men shipping them.

"El Capitan has a phonograph. My favorite tune is 'Take Me Back to Carolina.' After the music in the evening comes refreshments and a war chat, which is mostly pro-German (?) The captain is a typical Englishman and fine old chap.

"May 18—Arrived in port. Before leaving the ship I was fully determined not to fight any duels, not merely from the selfish motive of preserving my anatomy, but it might ever bar me as a presidential candidate.

"After looking the town over I find it is about 50 years behind Kinston. Lots of French soldiers and German prisoners. The French treat the Germans well. I must assert, Kinston isn't a bad place. If things don't go Dutch I will be back there soon to ride in my Ford.

"P. S.—Submarines? Nix."

ANNUAL OUTING IN JULY

Annual Excursion of Wilmington Policemen and Friends to Carolina Beach—Arrangements.

The annual outing and picnic of the Wilmington policemen and their friends to Carolina Beach will be given on July 14. This will be the 17th annual excursion of Wilmington's "finest," and, judging from the preliminary arrangements by the committee, which were completed yesterday afternoon, this is going to be the biggest and the best. Mayor Moore and Councilman Hall have accepted invitations to make addresses on this occasion.

The committee on arrangements is composed of Messrs. W. R. Applebury, chairman; J. S. Lane, secretary and treasurer; W. C. Moore, M. C. Huggins, R. J. Thompson, W. H. Rivenbark and H. G. Bullard.

Mr. Rivenbark will have charge of the music and dancing and Messrs. Moore, Thompson and Bullard will look after the refreshments, while Mr. Huggins will have general supervision of the sports, which will be an important feature.

Following is the programme that has been arranged for the entertainment of the several hundred people who will go on the excursion on the steamer Wilmington:

11 A. M.—Tug of war, first, second and third prizes.
11:30 A. M.—Target shooting.
Noon—Foot racing.
2 P. M.—Chicken striking contest.
4 p. m.—Addresses by Mayor Moore and Councilman Hall.
4:30 P. M.—Dressing race.
